Blake in the Marketplace, 1991

by Robert N. Essick

After several extremely active years, the market in Blake's illuminated books slowed in 1991. Indeed, as far as I can determine, no complete copies changed hands. As if in compensation, both private and institutional collectors indulged in a lively exchange of Blake's drawings and separate prints. Two of the most significant works to find new owners, the splendid water color of The Death of St. Joseph (illus. 5) and the haunting tempera of Evening (illus. 6), did so without benefit of auctioneers or dealers. Both were given to the National Gallery of Art, Washington, by generous benefactors. Less important drawings, including one untraced since 1880 and another (illus. 4) lost to sight for 34 years, continued to appear in London salerooms. A partly hand-colored impression of Blake's largest print, "Chaucer's Canterbury Pilgrims," changed hands privately (see illus. 8-9). Several important separate plates, including "The Man Sweeping the Interpreter's Parlour" (illus. 10) and only the second extant impression of "The Chaining of Orc" (illus. 7), appeared in the same Sotheby's New York auction on 9 May. The sale also brought to market 10 plates from For the Sexes: The Gates of Paradise (illus. 1-2)—the first group to be sold since 1966—and a previously unknown relief etching of four of Blake's Virgil illustrations. The prices fetched by these works indicate that the high end of the Blake market remains largely unaffected by the widely-reported downturn in prices for Impressionist and contemporary art and the weakness in all but the very finest British paintings and water colors. "Orc" set a new record for any single print by Blake (excluding the large color prints that the marketplace always treats as paintings). "The Man Sweeping" fetched more than 10 times the price of the last impression sold at auction (1980), while the final-state plates from The Gates of Paradise exceeded the pre-sale high estimate by over 400%. In this context the price for the Virgil relief etching—only 50% above the high estimate—seems modest. This anomaly can be accounted for by the fact that at least one expert in the field considered the Virgil print to be a fake, and thus Sotheby's was forced to offer the work as only "attributed" to Blake. Taken together, the prices at this remarkable auction and the money paid for Blake's illuminated books over the last three years indicate that Blake is now appreciated by collectors principally as a printmaker. His drawings, particularly those lacking color, are in comparison considerably undervalued.

The Heim Gallery of London presented an exhibition of British History Paintings, 1750-1830, as its annual spring show for 1991. All but a few of the 142 paintings, drawings, and prints were for sale, generally at record prices (e.g., £500 for individual plates from the Boydell Shakespeare Gallery). There were no Blakes, but the show included several paintings by Stothard, two drawings by Fuseli, and a good many prints after both artists. All these and other relevant works are individually listed below. The handsome catalogue, complete with color reproductions and essays by Martin Butlin, Martin Postle, Peter Cannon-Brookes, David Alexander, and Geoffrey Ashton, is well worth having. I understand that the Heim Gallery has now shut its doors, perhaps for good. Another career ruined by over-reaching ambitions in history painting?

In my review of 1989 sales (Blake 24 [1990]: 220-37), I briefly noted the availability of the Edwin Wolf 2nd collection of Blake and Blakeana. After the 350 or so volumes and offprints failed to sell at a reported asking price of £100,000, the dealer (or dealers?) who owned the collection turned them all over to Sotheby's London for sale at a 6 June auction. The books were parcelled out into 28 lots, some with as many as 25 volumes and clearly aimed at the trade rather than individual collectors. Since the total of the high estimates was only £31,750 (less Sotheby's 10% commission), the owners had decreased their expectations considerably without trying the alternative sales approach of offering the books individually in a catalogue. The rationale for their marketing strategy escapes me.

Nine of the lots in the Wolf sale consisted of volumes with engravings by or after Blake. Since most of these lots contained more than one work, they cannot be divided sensibly into my usual title-by-title accounting of sales. Accordingly, I list immediately below the relevant lots in the Wolf auction. Most of the 19 lots of secondary works were purchased by the Japanese dealer, Rinsen. For the 2 lots containing manuscript and typescript materials, see under Interesting Blakeana, below.

Another Blake collection, considerably smaller than Wolf's, was dispersed late in 1991. The group of books with Blake's commercial book engravings, basic secondary materials, and prints by Samuel Palmer was assembled by Oscar Lewenstein of Sussex. In October, the Tate Gallery acquired most of the books containing Blake's engravings. For those who might wish to make use of the Tate's holdings in the future, the following listing of volumes from the Lewenstein collection may be of use:

1. For the Sexes: The Gates of Paradise, pl. 15 (inscribed "13" in the pl.), final (fourth) st. Intaglio etching/engraving, plate mark 8.1 x 7.2 cm., printed in black ink on wove sheet 21.9 x 14.3 cm. From a previously unrecorded group of 10 pls. Photo courtesy of Sotheby's New York.

The year of all sales and catalogues in the following lists is 1991 unless indicated otherwise. The auction houses add their purchaser's surcharge to the hammer price in their price lists. These net amounts are given here, following the official price lists. Late 1991 sales will be covered in the 1992 review. I am grateful for help in compiling this review to G. E. Bentley, Jr., Nancy Bialler of Sotheby's New York, Martin Butlin, Michael Campbell, Detlef Dörbecker (my source for all Continental sales), Andrew Edmunds, Ruth Fine, John E. Grant, Paul Grinke of Quaritch, Alan Jutzi, Thomas V. Lange (almost a co-compiler of this and earlier sales lists), Christopher Powney, Justin Schiller, Robert R. Wark, Henry Wemys of Sotheby's London, and John Windle. Thanks also to Robert Schlosser for his fine photographic work and to the Academic Senate, University of California, Riverside, for a research grant to pay the bill. Like all contributors to this journal, I am greatly indebted to Patricia Neill for her editorial expertise.

ILLUSTRATED BOOKS

For the Sexes: The Gates of Paradise. Unrecorded copy, pls. 8-18, 13-15, 17 (inscribed 1-6, 11-13, 15 in the pls.) only, all in final (fourth?) st., very well printed in black on wove paper without watermark. The paper has a smoother texture, and is more ivory in color, than the white Whatman wove of copy F, with which these pls. were compared. All probably from the same printing, given the uniformity in paper type, ink color, and pressure and quality of printing. Sheet sizes: pls. 3 (12.9 x 10.5 cm.), 4 (13.7 x 11.7 cm.), 5 (10.6 x 9.5 cm.), 6 (10.5 x 9.4 cm.), 7 (11.7 x 9.5 cm.), 8 (10.6 x 7.6 cm.), 13 (10.3 x 10.2 cm.), 14 (12.2 x 11.3 cm.), 15 (21.9 x 14.3 cm.), 17 (11.3 x 8.1 cm.). Pl. 15 bound into an extra-illustrated copy of Gilchrist, Life of Blake (1863), vol. 1, the other pls. mounted on sheets of wove paper and bound into the same volume. As Joseph Viscomi has pointed out to me, the sheet size of pl. 15 is very close to those in copies C and D, and thus this new group may have been produced in the same print run. For provenance, see "The Chain of Orc" in the Appendix to this sales review. SNY, 9 May, #8, with the copy of Gilchrist also containing an impression of "Orlando Uprooting a Pine," Blake after Stothard from Holle's translation of Orlando Furioso, Gates pl. 7 ("Fire") illus. ($115,500 on an estimate of $15,000-25,000 to a private client bidding on the telephone. The new owner has not responded to my inquiry kindly passed on by Sotheby's). See illus. 1-2.

DRAWINGS AND PAINTINGS

The Awards of Aithene. SL, 11 April, #42, the property of an American private collector, illus. (not sold on an estimate of $6000-9000). Acquired Dec. by R. Essick from the estate of the vendor through the agency of Henry Wemys of Sotheby's and Christopher Powney. See illus. 3.

The Bed of Death. CL, 9 July, #86, illus. (Salander-O'Reilly Galleries, Inc., New York, $3520 on an estimate of £2000-3000). The drawing is not currently for sale but is part of the private collection of the Salander-O'Reilly Galleries. See illus. 4.

The Death of St. Joseph. Acquired 1991 by the National Gallery of Art, Washington. See illus. 5.

Hecate (or The Night of Enitharmon's Joy). Pencil, 24.2 x 27.8 cm., a preliminary sketch for the large color print of 1795. Butlin #319. Sold Feb. by the London dealer Sims Reed Ltd. to D. Heald, New York. Acquired May from Heald by R. Essick. For illus., see Blake 25 (1991): 120. The drawing has been lined in recent years with semi-transparent tissue, but when held to a backing light a pencil inscription can be seen on the verso, “3 Guinea[s] lined through / 1 Guinea.” The hand seems to me the same as the one exemplified by the similar verso inscription on The Dead Bad-Doers (or Dead Ardours, Butlin #232), “1 Guineas[sic] / 2 Guinea[s] lined through.” Butlin attributes this pencil note to the dealer Francis Harvey, and thus the Hecate drawing may have the same conjectural provenance in the second half of the nineteenth century as The Dead Bad-Doers: “sold to [the dealer] Evans by 1863; [Harvey by c. 1880].” This speculation fills at least a small gap, for Butlin records no ownership for Hecate between Frederick Tatham, who died in 1787, and Otto Schulze, who sold the drawing to W. Graham Robertson in 1905.

Jonathan. Pencil, 25.4 x 18.4 cm. on paper with a “JH/1818” watermark. Unrecorded until 1986. CL, 9 July, #85, illus. (£1650 to the dealer Christopher Powney on an estimate of £2000-3000). For illus. of this Visionary Head before considerable restoration work, see Blake 20 (1986): 16.

Lady Macbeth and the Sleeping Duncan. Pen, gray and brown washes over pencil, on paper with a J WHATMAN watermark, 32.7 x 42.6 cm., datable to c. 1784-86. Inscribed “Blake” lower right, perhaps a signature, partly trimmed off. Verso pencil sketch, probably of the same subject, reversed. Butlin #249, then untraced. Available at Thos. Agnew and Sons, London, fall 1991; apparently sold early 1992 to a private collector. For illus. and details, see Martin Butlin, “Two Newly Identified Sketches for Thomas Commins’ ‘An Elegy’ and further Rediscovered Drawings of the 1780s,” forthcoming in Blake.

Milton’s First Wife, from the smaller Blake-Varley Sketchbook. Pencil, sheet 15.5 x 20.5 cm. Butlin #692.96. Sold summer 1990 by Christopher Powney to the Indianapolis Museum of Art, Indianapolis, Indiana.

Two Heads in Profile (recto); detailed drawings for The Man who Built the Pyramids (verso). From the smaller Blake-Varley Sketchbook. Pencil, sheet 15.5 x 20.5 cm. Butlin #692.103, 104. Sold summer 1990 by Christopher Powney to the Snite Museum, University of Notre Dame, Notre Dame, Indiana.

The Awards of Athene. Pen and gray ink with light gray wash on the figures and cerulean blue wash in the background of the lunette, 19 x 29 cm. Inscribed lower right, “from Sculpture. William Blake vouched by Frederick Tatham.” Butlin #96, dating the drawing to c. 1780-85. Essick collection. The personified arts include, from left to right, Sculpture holding a hammer and apparently contemplating further work on the head by her right side, Poetry holding a volume and looking heavenward (in hope of a visitation from her muse?), Painting busy at her easel, and Architecture holding a drawing of a bartizan tower. Athene holds two laurel crowns and seems ready to award one to Poetry. Butlin suggests that the other figures are Drama (apparently the figure standing behind Sculpture and Poetry and wearing a Phrygian cap) and Music (far right, holding what may be a metronome). He also cites W. Graham Robertson’s opinion that the design may be “for an advertisement of a Technical School.” The lunette format suggests that the composition was intended for sculpted or painted architectural decoration above a door or window. Might this drawing have some connection with Blake’s activities decorating the ceiling of the Wedgwood family home, Etruria Hall, with Flaxman’s designs, c. 1785? (For information on this project see G. E. Bentley, Jr., “Blake and Wedgwood,” Blake 24 [1990]: 249-50.) In Milton, Blake names “Poetry, Painting, Music, / And Architecture” as “the Four Faces of Man” in “Eternity” (E 125), but then reconfigures their relationship in the temporal world in ways far more complex than the traditional arrangement presented in this early drawing.

SEPARATE PLATES AND PLATES IN SERIES, INCLUDING PLATES EXTRACTED FROM LETTERPRESS BOOKS

An album of mounted pls. “related to Blake including impressions from copper plates,” not further described. BBA, 14 Feb., #172 (Rainer, £60).

Allen, New and Improved Roman History, 1798. Campbell Fine Art, June cat. 3, #21-23, pls. 2-4 extracted, illus. (£225 each).

Ariosto, Orlando Furioso, 1783. For Blake’s pl. from, see For the Sexes: The Gates of Paradise, under Illuminated Books, above.

Blair, Grave, 1808. Campbell Fine Art, June cat. 3, #30, complete pls. extracted from the 1808 quarto, "Death of the Strong Wicked Man" illus. (bar-gains at £38 each).

"Chaining of Orc," 1812 or 1813. SNY, 9 May, #6, illus. ($101,750 on an estimate of $30,000-40,000 to a Sotheby's employee bidding for a private client who, according to Sotheby's, wishes to remain anonymous). See illus. 7 and the Appendix to this sales review.

"Chaucer's Canterbury Pilgrims," un-colored. Donald Heald, March private offer, 5th (final) st., a previously un-recorded impression, very well printed on thin laid paper with chain lines 2.9 cm. apart, image 30.5 x 94.6 cm., plate mark 35.5 x 96.5 cm. (very faint), unevenly trimmed sheet approx. 44 x 103.5 cm. (acquired August by R. Essick). Provenance: acquired at a Philadelphia house sale by a local book and print dealer, spring 1990; acquired summer 1990 by Heald. The only other recorded example on laid paper is an impression on the identical stock in the New York Public Library. The Philadelphia provenance of the new impression, coupled with the fact that the New York print was given to the Library in Nov. 1941, makes one suspicious that both are restrikes by the Philadelphia dealer Charles Sessler, who began selling them in April 1941. However, the New York print was stained by the paste used on the backing and discolored when received by the Library; such time-caused damage could not have arisen in only 6 or 7 months. All recorded Sessler pulls are either on a wove paper with a "FRANCE" watermark or on silk. Further, the new impression shows considerably more stipple on the pilgrim's faces than any Sessler impression I have seen, indicating that it is very probably an earlier pull. Indeed, the lack of wear on faces, and the printing of the drypoint sketching for the title letters, offset slightly from their engraved forms, are comparable to these same features in the 4th-st. impression in the Huntington Library. My tentative conclusion is that 5th-st. impressions on the type of laid paper described here are among the earliest pulls of that st.

CL, 14 May, #6, 3rd st., a previously unrecorded impression on "laid paper" (according to the auction cat.), wide margins, illus. ($12,100 on an estimate of $6000-8000).

John Windle, Oct. cat. 1, #35, 5th st., Sessler restrike, the full sheet as printed, stains from old mounting tape along margins, small repair center top margin, very small abrasion in the lower margin above "God" in the inscription, illus. ($8500)

4. The Bed of Death. Pen and gray wash, 15 x 14 cm., c. 1780-82. Butlin #139, un-traced since its sale at CL, 18 July 1957, #29 (£44). Christie's cat. of 9 July 1991 describes "rays of light" emanating from the bed, but I believe these are only lines indicat-ing folds in the curtain behind the bed. The justification for the title, first used in the 1957 sale catalogue, is unclear, but the drawing may relate to several early works dealing with death and burial (see Butlin #135-37). Covering mirrors when someone has died is traditional, but the significance of this scene of a woman seated before a mirror, and the cause of her evident fear, should provide some entertainment for Blakean iconographers. Any suggestions will be welcome. Except for the illus. in the 1991 auction cat., I believe that this is the first published reproduction of the drawing. Photo courtesy of Christie's London.
Dante engravings. SL, 6 Dec. 1990, #219, pl. 7 only, “The Circle of the Traitors,” and #220, pl. 3 only, “The Circle of the Corrupt Officials,” each supposedly a “proof [sic] before the edition of 1838,” but more probably an early printing on laid paper, both illus., pl. 3 showing surprisingly little burr for an early impression (£330 each on estimates of £5000-6000 each). David Mayou, Jan. private offer, complete set, apparently on laid India (“region” of £27,000). Jeffrey Stern, Feb. cat. 9, #217, complete suite, India “on thick laid [actually wove] paper,” with 2 copies of the printed label, loose in a morocco portfolio (£30,000; previously offered Jan. 1990 cat. 8, #340, £34,000). Weston Gallery, March cat. 2, #15, “The Circle of the Corrupt Officials” only, fine impression on laid paper (and thus perhaps before the first recorded printing of 1838), illus. (£13,580); #16, “The Circle of the Lustful” only, India paper laid on wove, perhaps from the first recorded printing on thick Colombier backing paper (according to the cat. entry), illus. (£13,580). SL, 12 Dec., #172, 2 pls. only, “The Devils Tormenting Ciampolo” and “Agnolo Brunelleschi Attacked by a Six- Footed Serpent,” laid India, “probably from the 1892 edition,” some staining, some creases and tears in edges (£825 on an estimate of £1000-1500).

“The Fall of Rosamond,” Blake after Stothard. SL, 12 Dec., #171, 1st st., printed in black ink on laid paper, trimmed irregularly to and into the border line, with fragments of the imprint, with Blake’s pls. 1-3 from Stuart and Revett’s Antiquities of Athens and the 1977 British Museum Publications portfolio of Virgil restrikes (£605 to D. Heald for R. Essick). This impression of “The Fall of Rosamond” shows that the imprint was indeed present in the 1st st. (the other two recorded 1st-st. impressions have the imprint area trimmed off). The print was purchased at an unknown time by the vendor, Oscar Lewenstein, for £88 from Sotheran’s of Sackville Street, London.

“Hiding of Moses” from Remember Me! (1825). SL, 14 Nov., #101, descender of the “g” in title inscription slightly trimmed, some staining, with Lavater, Essays on Physiognomy (1810), 5 vols., uncut in modern boards, original spine labels preserved; Benoit, Blake le Visionnaire (1909); and Wright, Life of Blake (1929); 8 vols. in all from the collection of Pamela and Raymond Lister (£264 to Pickering & Chatto for John Windle for R. Essick). “Hiding of Moses” is now in the collection of Detlef W. Dörrebecker.

Job engravings. Print Connections, winter 1990-91 cat. 7, #1, pl. 6 only, published “Proof” on laid India, illus. (£1950). Weston Gallery, March cat. 2, #14, pl. 5 only, regular issue on Whatman paper, illus. (£3880). Campbell Fine Art, June cat. 3, #17, title pl. only, India paper laid on a sheet of Whatman 1825 wove (hence from the published “Proofs”), illus. (£950). Swann, 6 June, #41, pl. 6 only, published “Proof” on laid India, small nick in image, illus. (looks like a bargain at $715). CNY, 26 Sept., #305, pl. 20 only, laid India without the “Proof” inscription, illus. (no price list received; estimate $500-700). SNY, 31 Oct., #84, complete set of published “Proof” impressions on laid India, some rippling in the India on 5 pls., early half morocco over marbled boards with original printed label on upper cover, upper cover detached and some pls. loose, pls. 3, 9, 13 illus. (£41,250 on an estimate of $40,000-50,000).

5. The Death of St. Joseph. Water color, 37.1 x 35.2 cm., signed with Blake’s monogram and dated 1803. National Gallery of Art, Washington, the gift (partial and promised) of Louisa C. Duemling, in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of the National Gallery of Art. Accession #1991.25.1; Butlin #511. A companion to The Death of the Virgin in the Tate Gallery (Butlin #512).
"Man Sweeping the Interpreter's Parlour," c. 1822(?). SNY, 9 May, #7, illus. ($60,500 on an estimate of $20,000-$30,000 to the dealer N. W. Lott for stock, price on application). See illus. 10 and the Appendix to this sales review.

"Morning Amusement" and "Evening Amusement," the pair after Watteau. SL, 6 June, #93, printed in black, slightly spotted and soiled, mounted in a scrap book "with other engraved plates and book illustrations of the same period and similar material," but apparently not by Blake, "Evening Amusement" illus. (Rinsen, £990).

Rees, Cyclopaedia, 1819-20. Campbell Fine Art, June cat. 3, #25-29, 5 of Blake's pls. extracted, lacking only pl. 6, details from 2 pls. illus. (£55 to £120 each).

Stedman, Narrative, 1796. Campbell Fine Art, June cat. 3, #19, pl. 10 only, "A Surinam Planter in his Morning Dress," from the 1st ed., illus. (£175); #20, pl. 1 only, "A Coromantyn Free Negro, or Ranger, armed," from the 1st ed., illus. (£145).

Virgil illustrations. Kenneth Karmiole, Jan. private offer, 9 wood engravings only, Linnell reprints bound in a green cloth oblong volume, from the collection of Moncure Biddle and with his bookplate ($1000). SNY, 9 May, #9, a previously unknown relief etching of cuts 2-5, with small patches of hand tinting in black, illus. (£15,400 on an estimate of $7000-10,000 to D. Heald for R. Essick). See also "The Fall of Rosamond" above. For more information on the relief etching, see the Appendix to this review and Essick, "A Relief Etching of Blake's Virgil Illustrations," Blake 25 (1991-92): 117-27.

6. Evening. Tempera on pine panel, 91.8 x 29.7 cm., c. 1820-25. National Gallery of Art, Washington, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hanes, in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of The National Gallery of Art. Accession #1990.22.1; Butlin #809. One side (probably the right) of a chimney-piece painted for John Johnson's rectory at Yaxham, Norfolk. The (left?) side, picturing a personification of Winter, is now in the Tate Gallery (Butlin #808); the top panel has been untraced since c. 1905 and has probably been destroyed. Both surviving panels take their subjects from William Cowper's The Task, Book 4.

8. "Chaucer's Canterbury Pilgrims," 1810. Etching/engraving, 2nd st., left half of image. Essick collection, formerly in the possession of Mrs. Blake, Frederick Tatham, the London dealer Robson (seen in his shop by Keynes in 1912), Frank J. Hogan, David McKell, his son Dr. David McKell, and his son Donald McKell. Partly hand colored, inscribed in pencil lower left, "This print was coloured by the Artist W. Blake, and given by Mrs Blake to F. Tatham Esqr." Wove paper, laid down to a nasty backing mat, evenly browned. Full sheet 40.4 x 96.9 cm., plate mark 35.8 x 96.6 cm., image 30.3 x 94.1 cm. The wooden backing board for the frame, covered for many years by brown paper, bears Robson's sticker. The only other recorded impression of the 2nd st. (Keynes Family Trust, on deposit at the Fitzwilliam Museum) is more completely colored in a similar style to this print; both generally follow the color scheme of Blake's tempera painting. I am more convinced than ever that the hand coloring on the impression reproduced here is by Blake himself. Several faces, particularly those of the Host, the Monk, and the Friar, exhibit a subtle combination of rose and blue to create flesh tones—a technique found in some of Blake's best nineteenth-century coloring and far beyond the skills of commercial colorists. The astute London print dealer, Andrew Edmunds, based on his inspection of color transparencies and enlargements made from them, has concluded that this impression is in part color printed (e.g., the faces of the pilgrims on the right—see illus. 9—and the body of the Host). I am equally convinced that there is no color printing. As far as I can determine, this and illus. 9 are the first reproductions of the 2nd st. large enough to reveal individual engraved lines. In the 3rd st., the hatching patterns on the pilgrims' clothing and their horses have been augmented considerably. The authorship of the pencil inscription, which I had previously and very tentatively attributed to Tatham, is an open question. The line is written in a very studied hand, with carefully formed, almost decorative, capitals, and this makes autographic identification difficult. Some of the letters are stroked in the same direction and with the same number of elements as Tatham's, but others are not. The wording makes it possible that Mrs. Blake wrote the inscription.

not indicate the sts. of the pls., but a brief quiz on the telephone pointed to the 1st.

Hayley, Life of Romney, 1809. BBA, 19 Dec., #6, a "fine clean copy in contemporary mottled calf" (Thorp, £352 on an estimate of £150-200).

Hayley, Triumphs of Temper, 1803. John Windle, Jan. list 3, #14, small paper issue (St. $550). Sanders, Feb. cat. 116, #51, apparently small paper issue, lacking half-title, contemporary calf, not indicate the sts. of the pls., but a brief quiz on the telephone pointed to the 1st.

Hayley, Life of Romney, 1809. BBA, 19 Dec., #6, a "fine clean copy in contemporary mottled calf" (Thorp, £352 on an estimate of £150-200).

Note: None of the cat. entries listed here mentions the presence or absence of Blake's pl.

Josephus, Works. Howes, May cat. 250, #125, Bentley's first issue, half calf rebacked (£200). BBA, 13 June, #244, C. Cooke issue, 58 of 61 pls., foxed (Bernard, £165). Eric Kline, July private offer, an issue between Bentley's 1st and 2nd (see Appendix, below), 2nd (1st Josephus) sts. of Blake's pls., contemporary calf, rebacked (£750); another copy, same sts. of the pls., Bentley's 3rd issue, contemporary calf, worn (£750); another copy of the 3rd issue, Oct. private offer, contemporary calf, worn ($875).

Malkin, A Father's Memoirs of his Child, 1806. BBA, 11 April, #327, bound with Malkin, Almabide and Hamet, 1804, some foxing, contemporary calf, worn with upper cover detached (Axe, £110). James Burmester, July cat. 14, #20, with half-title, contemporary calf rebacked (£250). Quaritch, Oct. cat. 1150, #14, with a presentation inscription from Malkin to "Dr. Pett" and an inscription by William Michael Rossetti recording the gift of the vol. from Thomas Dixon, blue morocco rebacked (£680). Simon Finch, Nov. cat. 7, #10, half calf (£375).

Novelist's Magazine. Heritage Book Shop, Feb. private offer, vol. 8 (Don Quixote) only, both title pages dated 1792, pls. in 2nd sts. ($350); same copy, John Windle, Oct. cat. 1, #41 ($475).

Salzmann, Elements of Morality, Juvenile Library ed., c. 1815. BBA, 19 Dec., #7, lacking pl. inscribed 20 (but with a duplicate of the pl. inscribed 30 bound in its place), some tears, morocco-backed boards, slight wear (£264 to Quaritch for R. Essick).

Scott, Poetical Works, 1782. The Bookpress, April cat. 56, #392, contemporary calf (£375).

Shakespeare, The Plays, 1805. Robert Clark, Oct. cat. 25, #231, 10 vols., contemporary calf, worn, one backstrip missing, some spotting of pls., “good working or re-binding set” (cheap at £110). John Windle, Oct. cat. 1, #48, 10 vols., slight water stains in final 3 vols., full margins, diced calf (bit price at £2750).

Stuart and Revett, The Antiquities of Athens, 1762-1816. Sotheby, Apr. cat. 1017, #79, 5 vols., including the supplement of 1830 (£8700). CL, 7 June, #116, vols. 1-3 only, 1762-1794, some unspecified pls. missing, some spotting, worn (no price list received; estimate £300-500). CNY, 5 Dec., #339, 4 vols., 1762-1816, half morocco ($5280). See also “The Fall of Rosamond” under Separate Plates, above.

Young, Night Thoughts, 1797, uncolored. CL, 26 June, #248, 12 pls. shaved, no mention of the “Explanation” leaf in the cat. description, some offsetting, contemporary half calf, title page to Night the First illus. (Joseph, £3520). Simon Finch, Nov. cat. 7, #11, the “Explanation” leaf loosely inserted at the end, trimmed, but “a remarkably large copy,” with an impression of William Bell Scott’s etching of Blake (based on the Phillips portrait) inserted, H. Buxton Forman’s copy with his engraved label, half calf (£4500).

INTERESTING BLAKEANA

J. T. Smith, Remarks on Rural Scenery, 1797. Simon Finch, Apr. cat. 6, #240, contemporary morocco, pls. washed, engraved title page illus. (£750). Charles Wood, Apr. cat. 75, #177, original boards uncut, title page illus. (£800); #178, half calf (£550). As both dealers indicate, the list of subscribers includes “William Blake Esq.” Smith met Blake in 1784, but the chance that the subscriber is our Blake is lessened considerably by Smith’s practice of placing the word “Engraver” after all others named in his list who followed that profession.

Salzmann, Gymnastics for Youth, 1800. Jeffrey Stern, Feb. cat. 9, #150, contemporary calf rebacked (£1200). I no longer believe that the 10 pls. in this work were engraved by Blake—see Essick, William Blake’s Commercial Book Illustrations (1991) 124-25.

An engraved portrait of William Cowper based on T. Lawrence’s drawing. Campbell Fine Art, June cat. 3, #18, described as a proof before letters of Blake’s plate published in Hayley’s Life of Cowper, 1803-04, illus. (£375, purchased by the Tate Gallery). The print is in fact the 1st st. of Francesco Bartolozzi’s pl. of the same portrait. Exhibited at the Tate Gallery, 10 July-3 Nov. 1991, and misattributed to Blake in the handlist of the exhibition, William Blake and His Followers, p. 12.
11. "Group of Negros, as imported to be sold for Slaves," Blake's pl. 6 in J. G. Stedman, Narrative, of a Five Years' Expedition, against the Revolted Negroes of Surinam, 1796. Hand colored impression, 18.1 x 13.4 cm. Essick collection. The very slight engraved suggestions of vegetative patterns on the Africans' clothing have been enlarged and extended considerably by the overlay of hand coloring. These tendril and leaf motifs are similar to those on Mtntha's dress in Har Blessing Tiriel and on the bedspread in Har and Heva Asleep, both among Blake's illustrations to Tiriel (c. 1789, Butlin #198.4,11), and on the curtain forming the backdrop in A Girl and a Bearded Man Embracing (c. 1785-90, Butlin #85 recto). The closest parallel is offered by the patterned dress worn by one of the youths in Blake's Age Teaching Youth, a water color of c. 1785-90 (Butlin #91). The blue and rose red colors of the vines and leaves in the Stedman plate—an unusual choice for such motifs—is the same as the coloring on the dress in Age Teaching Youth (see Butlin's color illus. 179). This remarkable parallel offers some credence to the suspicion that Blake may have had some hand in providing coloring models for his plates in Stedman, although there is evidence to suggest that the coloring was based on Stedman's original water colors (none of which for Blake's plates survives). Similar, but less well defined, versions of the vine and leaf motifs in the same two colors are present in the hand-tinted copy of the 1796 ed. in the Huntington Library. In hand-colored copies of the 1806 and 1813 issues I have seen, the decorations on the Africans' clothing are covered with uniform washes that obscure the engraved tendrils.

After being informed of the truth about this pl., Michael Campbell of Campbell Fine Art very responsibly informed Robin Hamlyn of the Tate, which decided to keep the print.

William Hayley, letter to John Johnson, 27 Nov. 1803, SL, 18 July, #205, with a reference to an engraving in Hayley's Life of Cowper (see the Appendix below), 3 pp. (Quaritch, £550 on an estimate of £600-700). Quaritch, Oct. cat. 1150, #68 (£1200). According to the auction cat., the passing mention of "our good Lady H" refers to Emma Hamilton, but surely Quaritch's catalogue is right in identifying the woman as Lady Hesketh, Cowper's ever-solicitous cousin who was much involved with Hayley's composition and publication of the Life of Cowper.

Skeletons Abducting a Woman. Pencil, pen, gray wash drawing, 24.8 x 35 cm., inscribed "W. Blake. 1804." CL, 9 July, #10 (£88 on an estimate of £200-300). Sold as "English School, circa 1780," but Martin Butlin has suggested in correspondence that the drawing is by the Danish artist Nikolai Abildgaard (1744-1809).

Frederic Shields, drawing for the dust jacket and cover of Gilchrist, Life of Blake, 1880. Acquired summer 1991 by the dealer Christopher Powney from David Bindman; sold August by Powney to R. Essick. See illus. 12.

Anne Gilchrist and her son, Herbert. 38 letters to, some concerning Gilchrist's Life of Blake, from John Linnell Sen.,

William Muir, facsimile of Blake’s Europe, no. 7 of 50 copies, hand colored, bound in multi-colored calf with decorations based on Blake’s frontispiece, probably executed by an amateur. Robert Clark, Feb. cat. 23, #184 (£380). Item #185 is Muir’s facsimile of America, no. 31 of 50, no information on coloring, similarly bound, the cover decorated with “snakes, birds & ca-vorting figures” (£380).

Keynes, A Bibliography of William Blake, 1921. SL, 6 June, #116, Edwin Wolf’s copy with his extensive annotations (Rinsen, £1650). Chapel Hill Rare Books, July cat. 60, #79, inscribed by Keynes to the dedicatee, William Bateson, and with a 4 pp. letter from W. A. Raleigh to Bateson about Blake ($3500; not sold, offered privately in Dec. for $2000).

12. Frederic Shields, drawing for the dust jacket and cover design for Alexander Gilchrist, Life of William Blake, 2nd ed., 1880, based on Robert Blake’s drawing in William Blake’s Notebook, p. 5. Pen and black ink, black and brown washes heightened with white, 23.5 x 14.3 cm. on tracing paper mounted on an olive brown sheet. Apparently Shields traced the design directly from Blake’s Notebook, then in Dante Gabriel Rossetti’s possession. The back of the mount bears several pencil inscriptions related to the production of the cover. The longest, in what looks to me like Rossetti’s hand, reads as follows: “Leave plenty of Black—don’t thin the black lines or washes too much—so that when a proof is taken we can put more white in if needful.” Essick collection.
BLAKE’S CIRCLE AND FOLLOWERS

Works are listed under artists’ names in the following order: untitled paintings and drawings sold in groups, single paintings and drawings, letters and manuscripts, separate plates, books by (or with plates by or after) the artist.

BARRY, JAMES

Ecce Homo (recto); Classical Figures (recto). Pen and ink, brown wash, 30.5 x 19.8 cm., signed and inscribed with the recto title. CL, 9 April, #6, illus. (£660).

“King Lear Weeping over the Body of Cordelia,” engraved by Legat for Boydell’s Shakespeare Gallery. Campbell Fine Art, June cat. 3, #7, etched proof trimmed to the image, illus. (£160).

A Series of Etchings by James Barry, 1808. Campbell Fine Art, June cat. 3, #1-6, 6 pls. extracted, all illus. (£180 to £350).

CALVERT, EDWARD

FLAXMAN, JOHN

See also Flaxman under Letterpress Books with Blake’s engravings, above.

A folio of 12 sheets of drawings, six with verso studies, one by another hand, for funeral monuments, portraits, a bird, figures and heads, pencil or pen and ink, with a drawing of figure studies on blue paper and 3 drawings “attributed to the artist.” SL, 11 April, #7, the folio drawings dated to c. 1780, 4 drawings illus., including one inscribed “WB” and “W Blake del.” (not sold on an optimistic estimate of £4000-6000). These drawings are from a larger group attributed to Flaxman in Iolo A. Williams, “An Identification of Some Early Drawings by John Flaxman,” Burlington Magazine 102 (1960): 246-50.

Charity. CL, 9 July, #16, illus. (£1210 to the dealer Christopher Powney on an estimate of £500-700). See illus. 13.

Designs for Chess Pieces. Pen and brown ink, brown wash, 11 x 19 cm., with 3 other drawings attributed to Flaxman or Stothard, illus. (not sold on an estimate of £400-600).

Flaxman, portrait of, by John Jackson. Oil, 76 x 68.5 cm. CL, 1 March, #23, illus. (not sold on an estimate of £3000-5000).

Midsummer Night’s Dream, an illustration to. Wash, with touches of blue and pink by another hand (now almost completely removed by cleaning). Acquired fall 1991 by the Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge, with a companion drawing by Henry Howard also illustrating Shakespeare’s play.

“Summer” and “Autumn,” lithographs after Flaxman, round, 37.5 cm. diameter. CL, 18 Sept., #104 (£132).

Aeschylus illustrations, 1831. Ars Libri, August cat. 85, #1724, light wear (£375).

Swann, 5 Sept., #112, worn and foxed (£66).

Dante illustrations, 1807. Ars Libri, August cat. 85, #1723, worn (£475).

Swann, 5 Sept., #111, worn and foxed (£99). BBA, 19 Dec., #54, foxed, contemporary half vellum, rubbed and soiled (not sold on an estimate of £80-120).

Flaxman, Anatomical Studies, 1833. Robert Clark, May cat. 24, #222, a late reissue of c. 1879 (according to the dealer), original late nineteenth-century red cloth, worn (£200). Marlborough Rare Books, Sept. cat. 42, #143, original green cloth rebacked (£320).

Flaxman, Lectures on Sculpture. The Chaucer Head, June cat. 13, #562, 1829 ed., half morocco (£120). Dawson Book Service, Oct. cat. 35, #163, 1838 ed., contemporary calf (£140). Note: The 2nd ed. is often priced higher than the 1st because the illustrations in the 1838
vol. were the first impressions of 1829, mistakenly printed on leaves too small for use in the 1st ed.

Flaxman's copy, with his signature, of Ruins of Athens, pub. Sayer, 1759. CNY, 5 Dec., #320 ($1650).

FUSELLI, HENRY

Ever, after the Sentence and Departure of the Judge, Despairing, Supported by Adam. Oil, 152.5 x 72.5 cm., exhibited in Fuseli's Milton Gallery, 1799-1800, no. XXI. Cl., 12 July, #45, from the collection of Dian and Andrea Woodner, illus. color (not sold on an estimate of £70,000-100,000).

King David Being Warned by the Prophet Nathan. Cl., 2 July, #192, from the collection of Ian Woodner, illus. color (£30,800 on an estimate of £12,000-18,000). See illus. 14.

Kriemhild and the Dead Siegfried. Black chalk with India ink wash, 38.5 x 50.5 cm. Heim, May-June cat., #140, illus. (£79,000—a very optimistic asking price).

An Old Prophet Preaching. Pencil, gray and pale green wash, 16 x 13 cm. CL, 9 July, #60, with seven other drawings by J. R. Schellenberg, S. Granicher, and others, from the collection of J. C. Lavater, illus. color (£3300 on an estimate of £3000-5000). In my opinion, the attribution to Fuseli is very doubtful. This is probably a work by one of the other artists represented in this group of 8 works related to Lavater's physiognomic studies.

Orestes, Following the Murder of Clytemnestra and Aegisthus. Black and white chalk, 37 x 45.7 cm. Heim, May-June cat., #137, illus. (£79,000—another optimistic asking price).

The Power of Fancy in Dreams, an illustration for Erasmus Darwin's Temple of Nature (engraved by Moses Hoffmann for the 1803 ed.). Gray, blue, and pink washes heightened with white and touches of red ink, 36.5 x 26 cm. SL, 11 July, #177, illus. color (not sold on a brave estimate of £40,000-60,000).

Sapphic Love. Pencil, pen and brown ink, 17.2 x 12.4 cm. Cl., 12 Nov., #74, illus. color (not sold on an estimate of £15,000-25,000).

The Three Witches Appearing to Macbeth and Banquo. Oil, 87 x 112 cm., from the collection of the late Professor Richard G. Carroll. CL, 12 April, #38, illus. color (£71,500 on an estimate of £70,000-100,000).

Fuseli, a miniature portrait of, by Moses Haughton. Sold by a descendant of George Heath to Elizabeth Bentley; given by her to G. E. Bentley, Jr., July 1991. A very similar version is in the Ashmolean Museum, Oxford.

Letter to the publisher Cadell, recommending "A Young Engraver of Very great Promise," Alfred Freebairn, 1824. SL, 13 Dec. 1990, #454, with 18 other letters by various English artists (not sold; estimate £500-600).

"Hamlet" and "King Lear," engravings by Thew and Earlom for Boydell's Shakespeare Gallery. BBA, 7 Nov., #69, with 6 undescribed pls. also from the Boydell series, some short tears and dust staining (Finbar Macdonnell, £121).

Bible, published Macklin, 1800. Blackwell's, May cat. 12, #713, 6 vols., contemporary full blue morocco gilt extra (£800); same set, James Cummins, May cat. 31, #14 ($4000).

Homer, Iliad, 1810. Hamburger Antiquariat, Dec. 1990 cat. 209, #41, with the Odyssey, 1810 (lacking 1 pl. after Fuseli), 4 vols. in all, pls. before inscribed verses (DM600).

LINNELL, JOHN

43 landscape drawings by Linnell and members of his family, some dated 1807-26, mostly pencil, some with washes or colored chalks, various sizes, with 20 drawings by John Bell. SL, 11 July, #117 (not sold on an estimate of £600-800).

18 water colors (all but one a landscape), 1 crayon drawing, and 1 oil sketch by members of the Linnell family, some (perhaps all?) from the collection of Mrs. Edith Bell, John Linnell’s granddaughter. Martyn Gregory, Oct. cat. 58, #71-90, 14 illus. The works by John Linnell are as follows: #71, Derbyshire Landscape, water color, 7 x 10 in., signed and dated 1814, illus. (£2800); #72, Entrance of the River Lea into the Thames at Blackwall, water color, 16 3/4 x 22 3/4 in., signed (£1650); #73, Sunset: Return from the Harvest, water color, 10 3/4 x 14 3/4 in., signed and dated 1863, illus. (£3800); #74, Cloud Study, oil, 7 1/2 x 8 1/4 in., signed and dated 1845, illus. (£2200); #75, Cloud Study, crayons, 7 3/4 x 9 3/4 in. (£650); #76, Study of Hills and Clouds, water color, 11 x 18 1/2 in., signed, illus. (£3300).

Landscape with David and the Lion. Oil, 139 x 216.9 cm., signed and dated 1850. CL, 1 March, #86, illus. color (not sold on an estimate of £5000-7000).

The Storm. Oil, 17 x 21.5 cm., signed on reverse, slight damage. SL, 10 April, #192, illus. (#990 on an estimate of £2000-3000).

MORTIMER, JOHN HAMILTON

Beaching a Fishing Boat in a Gale. Pen and black ink, 20 x 28 cm. SL, 11 July, #70, from the collection of Colin Hunter, illus. (£4400). Apparently the basis for Robert Blyth’s etching after Mortimer of 1783.

Study for the Presentation of the Magna Carta to King John. Pen and brown ink, gray washes, 20.5 x 26 cm. Sotheby’s Sussex, 20 May, #346 (no price information, but apparently not sold on an estimate of £600-800). The same work, SL, 14 Nov., #89 (not sold on an estimate of £400-600).

Etchings Dedicated to Sir Josuah Reynolds, set of title and 15 pls., 1778. SNY, 9 May, #81, bound with “Revengeful Monsters” (1780), slight foxing, half morocco (£1320).

PALMER, SAMUEL

The Bay of Naples. Water color heightened with gold, 19.7 x 42 cm., signed. CL, 9 July, #120, illus. color (£7150 on an estimate of £6000-8000).

Cyprises at the Villa d’Estè, Tivoli. Water color, 51 x 71 cm. SL, 14 Nov., #163, illus. color (£22,000 on an estimate of £20,000-30,000).

Landscape with a Farm Cart Following Sheep and Cattle. Water color, 7 x 16.5 cm., inscribed on back “E. Enfield/19 Chester Terrace/ by Palmer.” Agnew’s, 118th Annual Exhibition of Watercolours and Drawings, Feb., #25, illus. (£17,500).

Near Underriver, Sevenoaks, Kent. Black chalk and water color, 26.7 x 37.5 cm. Agnew’s, 118th Annual Exhibition of Watercolours and Drawings, Feb., #65, illus. color (no price listed). Previously sold SL, 16 Nov. 1989, #95 (£70,400 on an estimate of £8000-24,000).

Old England’s Sunday Evening. SL, 14 Nov., #126, illus. color (£110,000—an auction record for a late Palmer). See illus. 16.

Sheep in the Shade. Pencil and water color with touches of white, 37.5 x 53 cm., signed. CL, 12 Nov., #138, illus. color (£12,650).

The Villa d’Estè from the Cypress Avenue, an illustration to Dickens’ Pic-

"Rising Moon," etching. Print Connections, winter 1990-91 cat. 7, #11, 7th st. ($420). SL, 12 Dec., #200, 7th st., “a very good impression” (not sold); #201, 7th st., laid India, minor foxing and ink-staining (not sold).

"Weary Ploughman," etching. Weston Gallery, March cat. 2, #18, 8th st., “very fine strong impression” on laid India, illus. ($1260). Garton European Prints, Nov. cat. 4, #2, touched proof between 4th and 5th sts., with (slight?) water color and chalk additions and scraping-out, illus. (£7500).

Dickens, Pictures from Italy, 1846. George’s, April cat. 715, #68 (£300). The 19th Century Shop, April cat. 20, #63, original cloth ($950). The 19th Century Shop prides itself on asking higher prices than anyone else.

Milton, Shorter Poems, 1889. Blackwell’s, Jan. cat. A99, #196, large paper copy out-of-series (£450). SL, 17 April, #339, apparently the small paper issue, original cloth, with an unrelated vol. (Rix, £85). BBA, 9 May, #358, small paper, original cloth (Samuels, £82);
15. Henry Fuseli, The Spirit of Knowledge. Pencil and gray ink, 18.1 x 22.2 cm. Possibly an unpublished frontispiece design for William Roscoe's translation of Luigi Tansillo's The Nurse, 1798. Clearly a scene of instruction, like Blake's earlier designs, Age Teaching Youth (c. 1785-90, Butlin #91), the title page to Songs of Innocence (1789), and pl. 10 in The Marriage of Heaven and Hell (c. 1790). Like the adult in Fuseli's drawing, the posture of the figure on the right in the Marriage illumination shows a strong indebtedness to the sibyls and prophets in Michelangelo's Sistine frescoes. Reproduced with permission of The Leger Galleries, London.

ROMNEY, GEORGE

A sketchbook of 67 leaves, 20.7 x 16.5 cm., containing drawings (pen and brown ink, some washes), drafts of letters, accounts, and diary excerpts, apparently dating from the early 1770s. CL, 9 July, #27, 6 pages illus. color (not sold on a brave estimate of £15,000-25,000).
RUNCIMAN, ALEXANDER

"A Man Sleeping by a Tree with a Flying Figure in the Sky" and "Mercury Flying above Sleeping Figures," etchings. SL, 12 Dec. #184, 1st St., illus. (£675). SL, 12 Dec., #57, illus. (£800).

"Flying above Sleeping Figures, " etching. SL, 12 Dec., #183, early impression, illus. (£990).

STOTHARD, THOMAS

14 drawings for book illustrations, including designs for Filial Affection, The Decameron, The Harper, and Gertrude of Wyoming. The majority inscribed, pencil, pen and brown ink, gray wash, 4 with water color, 13.7 x 14 cm. Cl., 9 July, #26 (£495 on an estimate of £400-600).

4 studies of figures, pen and ink. Sotheby's at Castle Howard, 12 Nov., #539 (£286).

A Biblical Drowning. Pencil and water color, 11.5 x 7 cm. Sotheby's Sussex, 20 May, #342, with 5 unrelated drawings by various hands (no price information; estimate £300-500).

Canterbury Pilgrims [sic?]. Pencil, pen and brown ink with water colors on most figures, 16.8 x 49.2 cm., indistinctly inscribed "Milan . . .", the top left corner repaired. Cl., 9 July, #25, illus. (£495 on an estimate of £500-700). The auction cat. claims that this water color copy by Stothard of his famous design is "remarkably faithful to the original," but other than the panoramic format, and the fact that a group of people on horseback are pictured, this design looks nothing like the engraving of Stothard's "Pilgrimage to Canterbury" or any drawn or painted version of it I have seen. The middle of the composition is dominated by two dark-skinned figures wearing Moorish hats. The inscription hints at an Italian subject.

Cimon and Iphigenia. Oil, 92 x 72.4 cm. Heim, May-June cat., #36, illus. color (£28,000—perhaps a record asking price for any work by Stothard).

Katherine and the Tailor. Oil, 70 x 53 cm., illustrating The Taming of the Shrew. Heim, May-June cat., #122, illus. color (£6800).

The Portland Vase. A pair of studies of the front and back, water colors, 30.5 x 22.5 cm., perhaps associated with Wedgwood's production of copies of the vase. Sotheby's at Castle Howard, 12 Nov., #540 (£7150 on an estimate of £500-800).

Sin and Death at the Gates of Hell. Oil, 12.7 x 16.5 cm. Heim, May-June cat., #97, illus. color (£3250). A subject a bit out of Stothard's usual line, but intriguingly handled in an evocative oil sketch.

An album of prints after Stothard, apparently all book illus., in 2 vols. octavo with approx. 460 pls. from The Royal Universal Pocket Atlas, Rogers' Poems and Italy, and works by Byron, Scott, etc. David Waxman, Sept. cat. 4, #112, dated to c. 1830, full morocco, rubbed (£500).

Pilgrim's Progress, the set of 17 large pls., 1788-93. BBA, 25 April, #58, 15 pls. only, some foxing, with a group of miscellaneous prints by and after other artists (York Gallery, £176). Ximenes Rare Books, Nov. cat. 93, #366, light soil ing of the pls., contemporary morocco, fore-edge painting of Bedford Bridge (£2000—a price determined by the fore-edge decoration). Swann, 24 Oct., #53, modern calf, front cover detached (£66).

European Magazine, 1782-84. BBA, 13 June, #159, vols. 1-46, 1782-1811, foxed and worn (Joseph, £1320 on an estimate of £400-600); #160, a collection of c. 560 pls. from, perhaps including the two after Stothard (Joseph, £990).

Hayley, Triumphs of Temper, 1799. Rota, April cat. 256, #674 (£28).

Appendix: New Information on Blake's Engravings

The Separate Plates of William Blake: A Catalogue For previously unrecorded impressions of "Chaucers Canterbury Pilgrims" and "Morning Amusement" and "Evening Amusement" after Watteau, see list of sales of Separate Plates, above.

P. 62, "Chaucers Canterbury Pilgrims," impression 2C. For further information, see the sales list of Separate Plates, above, and illus. 8-9.

P. 68, "Chaucer Canterbury Pilgrims," description of work added to the fourth state. I failed to note the rather substantial changes in the landscape background ranging from above the head of the Minciple to above the head of the Yeoman. The gently rounded hill in the middle distance of this area has been altered substantially. Rather then sloping down to the left, as does the hill in the third state from its apex above the Citizen's head to the clump of trees above the Sompnour, the hill now merges on its left side with larger hills above the trees. The right side of the hill has been shortened from its previous termination above the Yeoman's head to just above the Nun's head.

P. 69, "Chaucer Canterbury Pilgrims," fourth state, impression 4AA (estate of Douglas Cleaverdon). I note that this impression was sold at the end of the Graham Robertson auction, Christie's, 22 July 1949, as lot 91, "not in the catalogue." Thanks to the generosity of Justin Schiller, I now know that there was a catalogue for the lots "after the sale of the Graham Robertson Collection of William Blake" (title page). This impression indeed appears as lot 91.

P. 70, "Chaucer Canterbury Pilgrims," in the description of the fifth state, I suggested that it may not be a separate state but only the result of the wearing away of the drypoint inscriptions, right and left of the title, found in the fourth state. I now think this unlikely. The fifth-state impression on laid paper now in my collection, described above under sales of Blake's separate plates, shows as much stipple on the pilgrim's faces and as much evidence of the 16. Samuel Palmer, Old England's Sunday Evening. Water color and body color with scratching out and gum arabic, 30 x 70 cm., signed and dating from 1874. This work strongly resembles Palmer's etchings of the same period, particularly in the rendering of the sky. Like the prints, this water color harkens back to the work of Palmer's Shoreham period, but it also marks the difference between recollection and immediacy, between the studied execution and elaborate building up of forms in Palmer’s later work and the spontaneous line and exuberant coloring of his youth. drypoint sketching of the title letters, slightly above and to the right of the engraved forms, as does the fourth-state impression in the Huntington Library. If the drypoint inscriptions distinguishing the fourth state had simply worn away, without purposeful work with a burnisher and/or scraper, these other delicate features would also have worn away or at least shown considerable wear. Thus I conclude that a fifth state was indeed created, although it is possible that someone other than Blake, such as Frederick Tatham, removed the drypoint inscriptions after Blake’s death.

P. 90, a previously unrecorded impression (IB) of “The Chainin g of Ore,” now in an anonymous private collection. Wove paper, 17.9 x 12.4 cm. Although somewhat more richly printed than impression 1A, the inscribed date is still uncertain (1812 or 1813). Bound into vol. 1 of a copy of Alexander Gilchrist, Life of William Blake (1863). Acquired at an unknown time by a British diplomat, Hugh Frazier (or Frazier). Both vols. of the biography were sold to a Venezuelan diplomat in the United States after World War II. Disbound and sold by a member of the Venezuelan diplomat’s family, Sotheby’s New York, 9 May 1991 (see sales review above). Possibly the same as untraced impression 1, lent by Mrs. Gilchrist to the 1880 Boston exhibition and by E. W. Hooper to the 1891 Boston exhibit. Bound into vol. 2 of the 1863 Gilchrist from which this print was extracted is a copy of Horace E. Scudder, “William Blake, Painter and Poet,” Scribner’s Monthly 20 (1880): 225–40, a general article that begins with a reference to the 1880 Boston exhibit. See illus. 7.

P. 107, a previously unrecorded impression (2P) of “The Man Sweeping the Interpreter’s Parlour,” second state, now in the possession of the dealer N. W. Lott. Well printed, except for a strip along the left margin, on wove paper, 10.8 x 19.4 cm. For provenance, see “The Chaining of Orc,” above. Disbound from an extra-illustrated copy of Gilchrist’s Life of Blake and sold at Sotheby’s New York, 9 May 1991 (see sales review above and illus. 10).

P. 134, “The Fall of Rosamond.” For a previously unrecorded impression showing that the imprint was present in the 1st st., see under Separate Plates, above.

Pp. 178-80, “Edmund Pitts, Esq” In “James Earl: American Painter of Loyalists and His Career in England,” The American Art Journal 20 no. 4 (1988): 34-58, Robert G. Stewart claims that the “small head” exhibited by “J. Earle” (usually spelled “Earl”) at the Royal Academy in 1787, no. 12, is “thought to be the profile portrait of Edmund Pitts which was engraved by no less an artist than William Blake . . . .” (38). No further explanation as to who thinks so or why is given. Keynes, apparently without knowing of the exhibited work, also attributed the design of the plate to the American artist in his separate plates catalogue of 1956 (78), but see p. 180 of my Separate Plates catalogue for Keynes’ later and more convincing attribution of the portrait to the surgeon Sir James Earle (1755-1817). In the second state of the plate, “Armig” appears after “Earle,” indicating that the artist was the bearer of a coat of arms. Earle the surgeon was knighted in 1802, whereas the American artist never achieved that distinction.

relief etching of Blake’s Virgil illustrations, cuts 2-5, with several significant variations in the postures and clothing of the figures, the arrangement of the sheep, and numerous details. Image 14.2 x 8.5 cm.; single plate mark around all four images, approx. 14.6 x 8.8 cm. Only known impression disbound from an extra-illustrated copy of Gilchrist Life of William Blake (1863) and sold at Sotheby’s New York, 9 May 1991, lot 9, printed on a wove sheet 15.8 x 9.9 cm. and with touches of hand tinting in black, illustrated in the catalogue (see sales review above). For provenance, see “The Chaining of Orc,” above. An essay on this print, now in the Essick collection, appears in Blake 25 (1991-92): 117-27.

William Blake’s Commercial Book Illustrations

P. 23, Josephus, Works. A copy now in the RNE collection represents a second issue of The Genuine and Complete Works of Flavius Josephus, datable to c. 1786-87. The title has not yet been changed to The Whole Genuine and Complete Works and lacks the final line on the title page of that issue (“And sold by all other Booksellers in Great Britain”), but does contain the reference to Edward Kimpton and other features of The Whole Genuine and Complete Work at title page. These characteristics would seem to place this issue between the A and B issues in Bentley 1977, pp. 585-86. This issue not recorded in Bentley corresponds to the “B” issue in Roger R. Easson and Robert N. Essick, William Blake: Book Illustrator, vol. 2 (Memphis: American Blake Foundation, 1979) 23.

Pp. 25-27, The Protestant’s Family Bible. John E. Grant has kindly pointed out to me in correspondence the existence of Grazia Bernini Pezzini, Stefania Massari, and Simonetta Prosperi Valenti Rodino, Raphael In ventit: Stampe da Raffaello nelle Colle zioni dell’Istituto Nazionale per la Grafica (Rome: Quasar, 1985). This volume contains reproductions of the print by Lanfranco and Chapron of Raphael’s Bible plus several other series, not mentioned in my entry, which could also have been the basis for Blake’s plates: Baldassarre Aloisi Galanini (published 1613), Orazio Borgianni (published 1615), Cesare Fantetti (published 1675), Antoine Aveline (apparently copies of Chapron’s plates, first half of the eighteenth century), and Giovanni Ottaviani (published 1776). Grant also suggests that I should have mentioned that the river in Blake’s second plate (“Lot’s Escape”) may have been suggested to him by the two small triangles of water in Raphael’s fresco (and in some of the engravings of it) on which Blake’s plate is based, and that the entry on this same plate should have mentioned, as related designs, Blake’s Night Thoughts water color no. 158 (the title page to Night V) and his tempera of Lot and His Daughters. The Night Thoughts design shows Lot’s wife turning to look back at the burning city, but her posture is not clearly related to Raphael’s version. The castellated wall in the background of the Night Thoughts illustration may have been influenced by Raphael’s similar wall. Lot and His Daughters is of course a different subject and to my eyes shows no compositional relation to Raphael’s fresco or Blake’s plate based on it. The tempera does picture Lot’s wife and a burning city in the distance, but these motifs are standard features of the compositional tradition Blake follows closely—see for example Rubens’ version (engraved by Jacob Coelmans, 1702), a large plate of the subject by William Kent (no later than 1748), and many early Bible illustrations in the extra-illustrated Kitto Bible in the Huntington Library.

P. 43, The Original Works of William Hogarth, Blake’s engraving of “Beggar’s Opera, Act III.” I should have recorded the inscriptions on the banner hanging above the stage, “VELUT IN SPECULUM” (as in a mirror) and “UITILE DULCI” (the useful with the agreeable, from Horace). The crest top center bears the familiar motto of the Order of the Garter, “HONI SOIT QUI MAL Y PENSE” (shame to him who thinks evil).

P. 45, The Original Works of William Hogarth, “Literature.” I have come upon several more references to Blake’s engraving of “The Beggar’s Opera,” including a few very early ones not previously recorded.

a. John Ireland, Hogarth Illustrated (London: J. & J. Boydell, 1791). In the long description of Hogarth’s design (2: 571-80) is the following on p. 578: “The picture from which this [print] is copied, was painted about the year 1729, for Mr. Rich of Covent-Garden Theatre at the sale of whose effects in 1762, it was purchased by the late Duke of Leeds, and is at this time (1791) in the collection of the noble peer who now wears that title; by his permission it has been engraved by Mr. Blake; . . . . . .” In an unnumbered appendix at the end of vol. 2, entitled “The Original Works of William Hogarth Published and Sold by John and Josiah Boydell . . . 1790,” p. [3], appears “103 Beggars Opera . . . [is] 15[s].[0]d.” In the second ed. of August 1793, which lacks the appendix, much the same sentence quoted above appears at 2: 329 with minor differences in wording and one major difference: instead of the ascription of the plate to Blake, “Mr. Theeu” is given as the engraver without explanation. In the third ed. of 1806 and the reprint of the third in 1812, both lacking the appendix, the Blake reference in the body of the text reappears in an altered form: “When the late Duke [of Leeds] permitted Messrs. Boydell to copy it, the print was engraved by Mr. Blake” (2: 349). All four issues contain the 1790 outline engraving of the design giving a key to the characters and players (2: facing p. 571 in 1791, 2: facing p. 359 in 1793, and 2: facing p. 342 in 1806 and 1812).

b. A Supplement to Hogarth Illustrated; Compiled from His Original Manuscripts, in the Possession of John Ireland (London: for the Author, Mr. Nicol, and Messrs. Boydell, March 1798). This volume, frequently bound as a 3rd vol. with the first and second eds. of a, above, contains the following on p. 368 under a heading for the year 1790: "The Boggar's Opera. Engraved by Blake, and published by Mess. Boydell, from a picture in the collection of the Duke of Leeds." This same statement (with "Mess." changed to "Messrs.") appears in vol. 3 of both issues of the third ed. of a, above, p. 359. This volume is a new edition of the Supplement under a new title: Hogarth Illustrated from His Own Manuscripts; Compiled and Arranged from the Originals by John Ireland (London: Boydell and Co., 1812). Note: All issues of both a and b have engraved as well as typographic title pages; the information given here is taken from the latter.

c. John Nichols and George Steevens, Supplementary Volume to the Works of William Hogarth, with Biographical Anecdotes (London: Nichols, Son, and Bentley, n.d.[1816]). The following reference is on p. 99: "From this Painting [owned by the Duke of Leeds] a fine Print, engraved by William Blake, with the permission of the late Duke, was published by Messrs. Boydell in 1790." Facing p. 94 is an engraving by Thomas Cook, dated 1816, of the version of Hogarth's design then in the collection of Thomas Bowesbank and now in the Tate Gallery (Blake's plate is based on a different version).

d. Marvin A. Carlson, "A Fresh Look at Hogarth's Boggar's Opera," Educational Theatre Journal 27 (1975): 30-39. This essay (listed in Bentley's Blake Books Supplement, kindly shown to me in typescript) discusses the iconography of the design, the relationship between Hogarth's rendering of the stage at Lincoln's Inn Fields and other records about its appearance, and the theory that the painting was not engraved by Hogarth himself because of its potent political and social implications.

Pp. 71-72, Stedman, Narrative. For additional thoughts on the contemporary hand coloring in some copies of the 1796 edition, see caption to illus. 11 here.

Pp. 80-81, Hayley, An Essay on Sculpture, pl. 3, "Thomas Hayley." I should have pointed out that this portrait of Thomas Alphonso Hayley (1780-1800) illustrates William Hayley's verse "Epistle VI" on the death of his natural son, a student of Flaxman's in the art of sculpture. For a reprinting of this plate in brick red, see Tuer under Letterpress Books with Engravings and after Blake, above.

Pp. 88-89, Hayley, Life of Cowper, 2nd ed., vol. 2, 1803. I should have pointed out that Blake's pl. 4, the weather-house and Cowper's tame hares, is in the 2nd ed. printed, along with its accompanying letterpress text, on the recto of an unnumbered leaf following the blank verso of p. 415. In the 1st ed., the plate and letterpress text are printed on p. 415. The move was necessitated by additions to the text that carry the "Appendix," concluding on p. 414 in the 1st ed., on to p. 415 in the 2nd ed.

P. 89, Hayley, Life of Cowper, pl. 5, "A View of St. Edmund's Chapel" after Francis Stone. In a recently discovered letter to John Johnson of 27 Nov. 1803, Hayley refers to the drawing for this plate. According to Quaritch's catalogue 1150 of October 1991, p. 49, Hayley thanks "Johnny of Norfolk" for his "rapid & kind tho not very masterly outline" of Cowper's monument in the church there, but is anxious to have the finished "monumental drawing." Hayley further comments as follows: "... my apprehension being great that the delay will render it difficult if not impossible, for our Friend Blake to prepare his engraving by the Time our Book will be ready ... Pray give the worthy artist whatever you think he deserves ... I greatly wish to see the drawing before it is engraved—I trust you will send it very carefully packed without Glass or Frame, that it may travel most safely ..." The reference to a "monumental drawing" suggests pl. 6, inscribed "A Sketch of a Monument," but Johnson was not involved in acquiring the drawing for that plate. This new letter reinforces Blake's implication, in his letter to Hayley of 16 March 1804, that the drawing he worked from was lent by Johnson.

P. 93, The Plays of William Shakespere, ed. Alexander Chalmers, 1805, 1811. As John Windle has pointed out to me, there are 37, not "38," plates after designs by Fuseli. There is also an 1839 issue of this work in 9 vols., "Printed for Longman and Co." According to Bentley 1977, p. 956, this reissue consists of remainder sheets of the 1811 edition with new title pages.

Appendix i. False and Conjectural Attributions

P. 122. In his "Introduction" to William Blake, Songs of Innocence and of Experience, ed. Andrew Lincoln, Blake's Illuminated Books, Vol. 2 (London: William Blake Trust/Tate Gallery, 1991) 14, Lincoln states that "early in his [Blake's] professional career he was commissioned to engrave designs for [William Enfield's] The Speaker (c. 1780), ... and for Mrs [Anna Letitia] Barbauld's Hymns in Prose for Children (1781)." Lincoln has generously informed me in correspondence that this second attribution is an error; there is no evidence that Blake executed or was commissioned to execute plates for the Barbauld volume.

P. 123. Detlef Dörnbecker has pointed out to me that the Neagle who engraved plates for Flaxman's Odyssey designs was James, not "John." "James" appears in the DNB, but all other standard reference works I have consulted, including Redgrave's A Dictionary of Artists of the English School, record "John."

P. 127. Add the following title: Oliver Goldsmith, History of England to the Death of George II, 2 vols., octavo, 1827. According to the c. 1928 "William Blake" catalogue issued by the London bookdealer Francis Edwards, Ltd., item 64, this edition contains 37 engravings "sometimes ascribed to Wm. Blake." I have not been able to locate a copy of these volumes but suspect that the attribution has no merit. None of the illustrated editions I have seen contains plates by Blake.
