A Checklist of Blake Scholarship, June ’68 to May ’69

Sharon Flitterman

Blake/An Illustrated Quarterly, Volume 3, Issue 1, June 15, 1969, pp. 6-7, 20
Heaven and Hell to its fruition in Sir Walter Raleigh's Milton..."

Werblowsky contributes significantly to our understanding of "Blake's great contribution to Milton criticism", but is misleading, sometimes confused, in many particulars, esp. in his insistence that Blake held the Lucifer-Prometheus myth together by accepting Satan's vitality "whilst ignoring the significance of his evil."

Novel. An imaginative interpretation of Blake's relevance to the modern world. A commentary on this novel (by Stuart Curran) is forthcoming in the Fall, 1969, issue of Blake Studies.

3. A CHECKLIST OF BLAKE SCHOLARSHIP - June '68 to May '69

This list was compiled with the assistance of Sharon Flitterman.

A. Bibliographies

Anon. "MLA International Bibliography, 1967," PMLA, LXXXIII, iii (June 1968), items 6854-6877; see also items 8400, 8463.

B. Articles and Reviews

---. "Guides to a New Language" [rev. of Erdman et al., eds., A Concordance to... Blake; S. Foster Damon, A Blake Dictionary]. TLS, October 3, 1968, p. 1098.

---. "Queen Katherine's Dream (1807)," Connoisseur, CLXIX (Oct. 1968), 134. Reproductions.

Ensooe, Gerald E. "The Content of Vision: Blake's 'Mental Traveller,'" Papers on Language & Literature, IV (1968), 400-413.

Kostelanetz, Anne T. Ph.D. abstract, Blake Studies, I (1968), 103-104.

Gilchrist Redivivus," Blake Studies, I (1968), 95-97. (continued, p.20
The Stars Sun Moon all shrink away
A desert vast without a bound...

Again the emphasis is on the difference between close acceptance of life, and fearful shrinking from it: there is a common image in Jerusalem of a sort of "exploding universe" in which not only the stars and planets but even the countries of the earth (notably Israel and Britain), are alienated from each other (e.g. Jerusalem 66: 40ff). In Jerusalem 83: 33ff this restricted vision becomes acceptable to Los after all, as a duty of the now repentant daughters of Albion (82: 72-80) to give some kind of shadowy understanding of the truth to "the weak traveller confin'd beneath the moony shade:"

An outside shadowy Surface superadded to the real Surface
Which is unchangeable for ever & ever Amen so be it!

(83: 47-48)

In short, Frend's idea seems to be drawn from Blake, rather than vice versa, and this explains the late date. Frend has watered it down, and turned it to a use which Blake would not accept; but that is, unfortunately, a common fate of Blake's particular and more original ideas.

W.H. Stevenson
University of Ibadan
Nigeria

---

A CHECKLIST OF BLAKE SCHOLARSHIP (continued from p. 7)

Tolley, Michael J. "On the Cutting Edge of Blake Scholarship," Adelaide University Graduates' Union Monthly Newsletter and Gazette, Dec. 1968, pp. 4-5.

C. Books
The Illustrations to The Divine Comedy. Da Capo Press (New York). Described in BNL #8, p. 61.