This was to be the year of The Grave, but it was not to be. As readers of this journal know, nineteen of Blake’s original watercolors illustrating Robert Blair’s The Grave, last recorded in an 1836 auction, came to light in the summer of 2001. An article by Martin Butlin, accompanied by four illustrations, announced this remarkable discovery in Blake 35 (2002): 68-73. Further details were provided by G. E. Bentley, Jr., in his annual checklist of publications for 2001 in Blake 36 (2002): 13-16. As I reported in Blake 35 (2002): 111, I was told in December 2001 by Dominic Winter—the British auction firm handling the sale of the designs—that they intended to offer them privately as a group. If that proved unsuccessful, then the water colors would be sold individually at auction, probably no later than fall 2002. Neither event has occurred.

In response to inquiries, Winter reported through the summer and fall of 2002 that negotiations for the sale of all the designs were at a delicate stage and no further information could be released. Rumor in the London art world suggested that the potential purchaser was Tate Britain. By mid-summer, another rumor began to circulate: the water colors were tied up in a dispute over their ownership. The part-time book dealer who brought the drawings to Winter for authentication and possible sale had not purchased them in a Yorkshire auction, as previously reported. Rather, he had evaluated them for their private owner as handmade reproductions, and shortly thereafter purchased them at a correspondingly low price. When the owners learned through press accounts that the water colors were Blake’s originals and could be worth millions of pounds, they initiated legal proceedings to procure the return of their treasures.

The essential features of this tale were confirmed for me by two knowledgeable sources, one a leading book dealer in England, the other a curator at a major British art museum. Thus, I was surprised to learn, on 8 January 2003, that Libby Howie, a London art dealer specializing in private sales of very expensive works, had just offered the complete group of Grave water colors to the American private collector who has assembled a remarkable group of illuminated books over the last twenty years. The asking price was $20 million. Howie claimed, in a brief telephone conversation with this collector, that all legal hurdles had been cleared and that she had clear title to the designs.

The final chapter of the Grave saga has not been written. The American collectors contacted by Howie do not intend to purchase the water colors; I suspect that the number of people who would even consider them at such a price is very small (less than one?). I hope to report something more definitive in my 2003 sales review.

This sales review is saved from disturbing news and (even worse) triviality by three events. The summer 2000 issue of Blake featured on its cover a rediscovered monochrome wash drawing by Blake, The Resurrection (see illus. 5), accompanied by an article by Martin Butlin (“A Blake Drawing Rediscovered and Redated,” Blake 34 [2000]: 22-24). In July 2002, the drawing came to auction at Sotheby’s London with an estimate of £20,000-30,000. Although the trumpeter makes the design more dramatic than most of Blake’s drawings of the mid-1780s, and the verso bears some sketches related to Blake’s 1802 Designs to a Series of Ballads by William Hayley, this seemed to me an optimistic estimate for any early work by Blake. I was proven completely wrong when the drawing was knocked down to the winning bidder at £125,000 (£144,150 inclusive of auctioneer’s fees). The purchaser was the venerable London dealer Agnew’s, almost certainly acting for a private client. Agnew’s has not responded to my inquiries about its customer.

Does this extraordinary price set a new benchmark for Blake’s drawings? Sotheby’s reproduced the black and gray wash drawing in color on the back cover of its 4 July 2002 catalogue. Even in a highly specialized field of collecting, such advertising can boost prices. I’m told that there were only two contestants beyond £30,000—sufficient to send bidding through the roof, but an insufficient indication that there is a sustainable and widely based market for Blake’s lesser drawings at such levels. We will need to see a roughly similar work achieve a similar price to confirm a giant leap in evaluations. But even this single auction can have an impact beyond the realm of wealthy collectors. When an institution borrows works for a public exhibition, it must pay insurance costs during both shipment and display. The coverage is determined by estimated values made by the owner; such estimates are based in large measure on the most recent sales prices of similar works. Blake exhibitions could become prohibitively expensive if insurance premiums rise dramatically.

In September, Alexander Gourlay acquired an impression of a previously unknown print by Thomas Butts, Jr., executed during the period when he was being taught etching and engraving by Blake. A second impression turned up in a dealer’s stock in the same month. I report a few details below (second entry under “Interesting Blakeana”); an illustrated essay by Gourlay is forthcoming.

Two water colors (illus. 1 and 3) offered at Sotheby’s London on 28 November presented a number of attribution problems. I have not seen the originals, and thus my comments here are based only on color transparencies. But the very nature of these works would create difficulties even for scholars fortunate enough to study them directly. Both are based on famous Renaissance frescoes that have been
1. Cumea. A copy, attributed to Blake, of Michelangelo's fresco of the Cumean Sibyl in the Sistine Chapel. Pen and black ink and water colors over pencil, 17 x 12 cm. For discussion and further particulars, see the introductory essay to this sales review. Photo courtesy of Sotheby's London.

Copied countless times by many generations of artists. Thus, since neither work is an original design by Blake, some of the criteria by which one can recognize his hand do not apply. Like most copies, the drawn outlines have a studied quality inherently less autographic than a quick sketch not based closely on a model. Both water colors are copies of works by artists (Raphael, Michelangelo) who greatly influenced Blake. Any such copies will look rather Blakean in figure type, musculature, expression, and compositional format. I'm not sure it has ever happened, but I can imagine a British or American tourist visiting the Sistine Chapel and exclaiming, "Looks like Blake to me."

Sotheby's presented the water colors as works by Blake without hesitation or caveat. I was very skeptical at first sight. Copy drawings are generally associated with the early years of an artist's career, and these two examples fit most comfortably into the context of Blake's work of c. 1779-85. But the rich, dark coloring looked all wrong for that period. The provenance information supplied by Sotheby's was unhelpful: "Acquired by the present owner in circa 1960" for the Raphael copy. No history was provided for the Michelangelo design, but I have learned from Sotheby's that it was brought to them by an Italian living in London, which makes one suspicious that the drawing may also be Italian. Yet, after reading the detailed and scholarly catalogue descriptions and comparing the reproductions to some known works by Blake, my suspicions were reduced.

The obvious touchstones for attributing the copy of Michelangelo's Cumean Sibyl (illus. 1) to Blake are his monochrome wash drawings also based on frescoes of the prophets and sibyls in the Sistine Chapel (Butlin #167 and 168-70 rectos and versos, dated to c. 1785). Cumea, at 17 x 12 cm., is only slightly larger than the average of the monochrome drawings (15 x 10.5 cm.). The crudely lettered inscription, "CUMEA," is to my eyes rather like the "DANIEL" inscription beneath that figure (illus. 2), although one could argue that the splayed feet of the "A" in the water color are uncharacteristic. Both inscriptions are loosely based on the lettering beneath the originals and repeated in most engravings of them. In the Daniel drawing, Blake has considerably softened the expression of the putto looking over the prophet's left shoulder. This difference is apparent when comparing Blake's work to either the original fresco or the engravings by Adam Ghisi of 1773, the likely source for

2. Daniel. A copy of Michelangelo's fresco of the prophet in the Sistine Chapel. Pen and wash drawing, 14.2 x 10.2 cm. Butlin #167, there dated to c. 1785. British Museum.
3. The Judgement of Solomon. A copy, attributed to Blake, of Raphael’s fresco in the Vatican. Pen and black ink and water colors, heightened with body color, over pencil, 13.5 x 17.5 cm. For discussion and further particulars, see the introductory essay to this sales review. Photo courtesy of Sotheby’s London.

Blake's copies. A less dramatic softening is evinced by the putti's faces in the Cumea design. The sibyl's hands in the new design are a bit leaner and more angular in outline than in the original fresco and Ghisi's engraving; this is also generally true for the hands in the wash drawings. The somber coloring is the major difference between the new composition and the previously known copies of Michelangelo. Although it is difficult to tell from a reproduction, there may be monochrome washes underlying the colors in Cumea. If so, then it is possible that Cumea was produced c. 1785 as a monochrome wash with the other copies of Michelangelo and colored in the first half of the 1790s when Blake's palette had shifted to darker hues.

The differences between the prototype and Blake's copy are also helpful in supporting the attribution of The Judgement of Solomon (illus. 3). In Raphael's fresco, Solomon does not hold a staff or scepter. This addition, and the way the staff rests against his body, are generally similar to what we find in the wall paintings of King Sebert and Henry III in Westminster Abbey, both copied by Blake c. 1775 while an apprentice to James Basire (Butlin #16, 17). In all three works, the figure's hand closest to the scepter holds it very gently, even limply, rather than grasping it firmly. The head of the man with white beard and hair, fourth from the right in Blake's version, also strays from Raphael's original, but looks a good deal like the man (a bishop?) on the right in The Making of Magna Charta (illus. 4), one of a series of water colors illustrating British history that Blake executed c. 1779. Perhaps the oddest difference between Blake's copy and the original is the addition of a cloth beneath the child lying on the ground lower center. A very similar cloth appears below the (dead?) child in plate 9 of Blake's Europe a Prophecy (1794).

A two-step chronology of composition again recommends itself for the Solomon design. Its small size (13.5 x 17.5 cm.) fits comfortably within the c. 1779 water colors on British history, all of which are heavily indebted to Raphael for their compositional formats. But the dark, rich, and carefully applied colors in The Judgement of Solomon are much closer to Blake's later (c. 1793?) and larger water colors on British themes, such as The Ordeal of Queen Emma and Edward III Presenting the Black Prince to the Barons (Butlin #59 and 66; see his color reproduction of the former). Yet even these works do not contain body color, a medium used to increase color density and, according to the Sotheby's catalogue, found in the Solomon composition. Perhaps the Solomon was first prepared, and possibly left in an unfinished state, early in the 1780s, when Blake was carefully studying Raphael, and colored up by Blake in the early 1790s. It is also possible that both drawings were left uncolored by Blake and that someone else, such as a member of the Linnell family, added the colors at a much later date. In my comments above, I have tried to make the best case possible for the ascription of both water colors to Blake's hand. But I still find myself sitting on the fence. An examination of the originals might push me toward a more comfortable position, one closer to Sotheby's cataloguer and the confidence evinced by the winning bids the drawings attracted.

The market in Blake's circle and followers was dominated by George Romney. A major exhibition of his paintings and drawings, accompanied by a handsome and scholarly catalogue by Alex Kidson, opened at the Walker Art Gallery, Liverpool, in February, and later moved to the National Portrait Gallery, London, and the Huntington Library, San Marino, California. Several owners took advantage of what amounted to free advertising and brought their Romneys to auction (see illus. 8). More impressively, Agnew's offered its own exhibition and catalogue of twenty-five Romney drawings in June. Most of the better works were on loan and not for sale. The fifteen drawings on offer had very high sticker prices, as the accounting below indicates.

Readers of the following lists of sales will notice the many references to eBay, the online auction firm. It has now become the major outlet for Blake and Blakeana, ranging from original engravings to postcards. The descriptions of the materials often leave much to be desired, and a good many of the books are stained or damaged. Yet, eBay managed to set what is probably a new auction record for a copy of Flaxman's Hesiod and Aeschylus designs bound together, the former engraved by Blake. One true rarity, the single plate signed by Blake as the engraver in Fennin g and Collyer, New System of Geography, 1785-86 (illus. 6), found a buyer on eBay. The auction site can even provide materials for scholarly investigation. The previously unrecorded engraving by Butts, noted above, turned up on eBay, as did an unknown (to me at least) facsimile of Songs of Experience (see under "Interesting Blakeana," below).

The year of all sales and catalogues in the following lists is 2002 unless indicated otherwise. The auction houses add their purchaser's surcharge to the hammer price in their price lists. These net amounts are given here, following the official price lists. The value-added tax levied against the buyer's surcharge in Britain is not included. Late 2002 sales will be covered in the 2003 review. I am grateful for help in compiling this review to Shelley Bennett, G. E. Bentley, Jr., Caroline Bullard, Michael Campbell, Warren Dennis, Jeni joy La Belle, Tim Linnell, Jerome J. McGann, and John Windle. My special thanks go to Alexander Gourlay for his generosity in keeping me abreast of internet auctions. Once again, Sarah Jones' editorial assistance and John Sullivan's electronic imaging have been invaluable.
Abbreviations

BBA Bloomsbury Book Auctions, London
cat. catalogue or sales list issued by a dealer (usually followed by a number or letter designation)
CE Christie's East, New York
CL Christie's, London
CNY Christie's, New York
CSK Christie's, South Kensington
illus. the item or part thereof is reproduced in the catalogue
pl(s). plate(s)
SL Sotheby's, London
SNY Sotheby's, New York
st(s). state(s) of an engraving, etching, or lithograph
Swann Swann Galleries, auctioneers, New York
auction lot or catalogue item number

Illuminated Books

For the Sexes: The Gates of Paradise, copy N (pls. 3-8, 13-15, 17 only) in G. E. Bentley, Jr., Blake Books Supplement (Oxford: Clarendon P, 1995) 78-80. This group of 10 pls., sold at SNY, 9 May 1991, #8 ($115,500), was acquired at the auction by a private American foundation. They were exhibited at the University of Virginia Art Museum, 26 Jan.-31 March 2002. For comments and illus. of pls. 15 and 17, see Blake 25 (1992): 144-46.

Drawings and Paintings

Cumea, a copy of Michelangelo's fresco of the Cumean Sibyl in the Sistine Chapel. Pen and black ink, watercolor, 17 x 12 cm., with a study (medium not described) of one of the Ennudi from the Sistine Chapel on the verso. SL, 28 Nov., #236, recto illus. color (£14,340 on an estimate of £10,000-15,000). See illus. 1 and the discussion in the introductory essay to this sales review.

God Blessing the Seventh Day. Watercolor, 42 x 35.5 cm., datable to c. 1805. Butlin #434. Acquired by early 2002 by Leon Black, New York, through the dealer John and Paul Herring. Rumor in the art trade claims that the price was around £2 million. For illus. and comments, see Blake 34 (2001): 101-02. Black also owns Blake's The Parable of the Wise and Foolish Virgins (Butlin #481).

The Judgement of Solomon, a copy (with variations) of the Vatican fresco of the same subject designed by Raphael. Pen and black ink, watercolor with body color, 13.5 x 17.5 cm. SL, 28 Nov., #235, illus. color (£26,290 on an estimate of £15,000-20,000). See illus. 3 and the discussion in the introductory essay to this sales review.

The Resurrection (recto), with studies of eyes, the head of an eagle, a human face, and a lion (verso). Some of the verso sketches are related to Blake's 1802 Designs to a Series of Ballads by William Hayley. Pen and gray ink, gray wash over pencil (recto), pencil (verso), recto image and sheet 20.5 x 21 cm., recto datable to the mid-1780s. Butlin #610 (listed as untraced since 1863). SL, 5 July, #183, recto and details of the verso illus. color (£144,150 on an estimate of £20,000-30,000 to Agnew's, apparently acting for a private collector). See illus. 5.

The Resurrection of the Dead or The Deluge. Pencil, 18.3 x 24.3 cm., datable to c. 1780-85. Butlin #79. Salander-O'Reilly Galleries, Jan. private offer ($35,000).

Separate Plates and Plates in Series

"Chaucers Canterbury Pilgrims." Maggs Bros., Aug. cat. 1326, #175, 4th st. (1 of 3 recorded), Essick impression 4AA, from the collection of Douglas Cleverdon, left two-thirds of print illus. (£25,000). Donald Heald, Dec. online cat., 5th st., Sessler printing on silk, made into a lampshade and mounted on a neoclassical style lamp, from the collection of Mrs. Charles J. Rosenbloom ($9500); 5th st., Colnaghi printing on laid India, impression 5JJ in Essick, illus. color ($12,000).

"Christ Trampling on Satan," Butts after Blake. Donald Heald, Dec. online cat., printed on paper 54 x 30.5 cm. With a watermark reading "J. Whatman/1886," inscribed by E. J. Shaw, "Proof No 12," impression 1J in Essick, illus. ($3500—a record asking price). This impression has been in Heald's stock for many years.

Dante engravings. Lame Duck Books, April cat. of "Illustrated Books," 4 pls. only as follows, probably from the 1892 printing, all illus. color: #61, pl. 2 ($10,000); #62, pl. 4 ($12,500); #63, pl. 5 ($7500); #64, pl. 3 ($7500). Campbell Fine Art, July private offer, complete set, 1968 printing, sold individually (prices on request). Donald Heald, Dec. online cat., pls. 2 and 4 only on laid India, probably the 1892 printing, illus. ($3000 each).
5. The Resurrection. Pen and gray ink, gray wash over pencil, 20.5 x 21 cm. Butlin #610 (listed as untraced since 1863, when it was described by W. M. Rossetti in his catalogue of Blake's art published in Gilchrist's Life of Blake). In his 1981 catalogue of Blake's paintings and drawings, Butlin associated this work with Blake's 1805 preparatory designs for Robert Blair's The Grave, published in 1808. When the drawing was rediscovered c. 1999, Butlin immediately recognized that this is a work of the mid-1780s, and thus could not be part of the 1805 Grave project. In his article on the drawing ("A Blake Drawing Rediscovered and Redated," Blake 34 [2000]: 22-24), Butlin states (p. 23) that it "may be linked in subject to two illustrations to The Grave not of 1805 but of c. 1780-85," The Counsellor, King, Warrior, Mother and Child (Butlin #136) and Burial Scene (Butlin #137 recto). He thereby implies that the textual source for the present work is indeed Blair's poem. But I can find no convincing evidence for this source; the drawing reproduced here could just as well be one of Blake's many biblical designs of the 1780s. The work nicely illustrates 1 Corinthians 15:52: "...for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed." The very similar description of the resurrection in The Grave (p. 32 of the 1808 edition) is illustrated by Blake's title-page design in the published volume. The whole matter is complicated by the fact that, as part of the 1805 project, Blake recycled some of his earlier designs not originally illustrative of The Grave. The title page, for example, is taken from a water color Blake originally executed c. 1795-97 as an illustration to Edward Young's Night Thoughts (Night 2, p. 5). Photo courtesy of Sotheby's London.

"Evening Amusement," after Watteau. Hand colored, trimmed close to image. Acquired April by David Bindman from a print stall on Portobello Road, London. The only colored impression known to me.

"The Fall of Rosamond," after Stothard. Campbell Fine Art, Feb. private offer, st. uncertain but probably 1st, color printed in brown and a reddish-brown flesh tone, green and blue washes rather haphazardly applied by hand in the background, cut close to the circular image, framed (£2500).

"George Cumberland's Card." The impression offered CI, 18 Dec. 2001, #83, printed in black ink on wove paper, 6 x 10.8 cm., without watermark, illus. color (not sold), was acquired in Feb. 2002 by the dealer John Windle for stock.

Job engravings. SNY, 25 Jan., #299, pl. numbered 9 only, printed on wove paper after removal of "Proof" inscription ($1560). Bonhams auction, London, 12 March, #31, complete set, 1826 printing on Whatman paper after the removal of the "Proof" inscription, ownership inscription of Mrs. L. G. Bennett (John Linnell's great granddaughter) on inside front cover, contemporary calf worn (£13,000). The 19th Century Shop, June cat. 87, #387, complete set, "Proof" issue on laid India, old paper boards, probably the set this dealer has had for several years, pl. numbered 13 illus. ($85,000). Weston Gallery, Sept. online cat. 3, pls. numbered 5 and 7 only, "Proof" issue on laid India, both illus. (both "sold"). eBay/Sloan's online auction, 20 Sept., #293, pl. numbered 16 only, after the removal of the "Proof" inscription, illus. ($875). eBay online auction, Oct., pl. numbered 4 only, "Proof" issue on laid India, illus. (no bids on a required minimum bid of $750). The vendor spelled the artist's name "William [sic] Blake," and thus this item did not receive any hits when searching for "William Blake." A nice demonstration of the economic consequences of poor orthography.

"M'Q." CSK, 9 July, #221,"printed in colour and finished by hand" (£293); same impression?, Robert Clark, Aug. cat. 63, #200, printed in black ink, framed and "trimmed close" (£650).

"Rev. John Caspar Lavater." Donald Heald, Dec. online cat., 3rd st., impression 31 in Essick, illus. ($1500). This impression has been in Heald's stock for many years.

Letterpress Books with Engravings by and after Blake, Including Prints Extracted From Such Books

Blair, The Grave. Michael Good, Jan. online cat., 1808 quarto, early boards rebacked ($1400). Quaker Hill Books, 1808 folio, some damp staining, three-quarter morocco ($1437.50). Argosy Books, Jan. online cat., 1813 quarto, half morocco worn ($1500). George Robert Minkoff, 1808 quarto, some foxing, early boards worn ($1500). Jeffrey Thomas, Jan. online cat., 1808 "folio" (but probably the quarto), some foxing, original boards (with cover label) rebacked, worn ($1500). Pratt Antikvariat, Jan. online cat., 1808 "folio" (but probably the quarto), "half leather" ($2427). George Robert Kane, Jan. online cat., New York unbound ed. pub. James Miller, water stained, original cloth worn ($140). James Cummins, Jan. online cat., 1813 quarto, half morocco ($1500). Sims Reed, Jan. online cat., 1808 quarto, modern calf (£1750); same copy and price, Nov. "Nineteenth Century" cat., #45. Peter Stern & Co., Jan. online cat., 1813 quarto, some pls. foxed, contemporary half morocco worn (£1750). eBay online auctions, March, individual pls. from the 1808 quarto as follows, all illus.: pls. 3 ($104.95), 4 ($87.88), 6 ($152.50), 10 ($100.99). Pacific Book Auction, San Francisco, 28 March, #23, 1808 quarto, pl. 1 trimmed into image at head and foot, foxed, quarter morocco, frontispiece portrait and pl. 1 illus. (not sold on a brave estimate of $1000-1500). eBay online auction, April, the frontispiece portrait only, Schiavonetti after Phillips, proof before imprint but with all other lettering of the 1808 first published st., the only known impression in this st. (an earlier proof st. before all letters and lacking some work in the image is in the Keynes Collection, Fitzwilliam Museum), sheet of laid paper 40.6 x 28 cm. showing the platemark all around, slight tears and some light staining (offsetting?), illus. color ($455). eBay online auction, April, 1808 quarto, some pls. lightly foxed, original boards worn and rebacked, cover label worn, several illus. (not sold; highest bid $645); same copy, May, illus. ($1250). eBay online auctions, April-May, individual pls. from the 1813 quarto, all illus., as follows: frontispiece portrait ($128.50); pl. 2 (not sold on a required minimum bid of $95, later sold at $45); pl. 3 ($150.27); pl. 4 ($95); pl. 5 ($177.50); pl. 6 ($125.02); pl. 7 ($95); pl. 8 ($95); pl. 10 ($180). SNV, 21 May, #391, 1808 quarto, foxing and staining, contemporary half morocco worn, printed label on front cover, pl. 12 illus. ($1195). eBay online auction, July, 1808 ed., lacking the frontispiece portrait of Blake and pl. 1 (the engraved title page), advertised as the rare "folio" issue but actually the far more common quarto, modern boards, illus. (reserve not met; top bid $720). eBay online auction, Aug., pl. 7 only, stated as coming from a "1911" reprinting (unknown to me) from the original plates, but more probably from the 1926 reprinting, illus. color ($150); pl. 8 only, apparently from the same printing, illus. color (no bids on a required minimum bid of $150). eBay online auction, Aug., pls. 9, 11, and 12 with "1813" imprints, sold separately, illus. ($150, $225, $175 respectively). Swann, 26 Sept., #54, "1813 ... small folio" (actually the 1870 reprint), stained, original cloth very worn (not sold; estimate $800-1200). eBay online auction, Oct., pl. 11 only, 1813 imprint, illus. ($145). John Windle, Oct. cat. for the Boston Book Fair, #7, 1808 quarto, slight staining on some pls., full morocco ($2750); #8, 1813 quarto, half morocco ($2250); #9, 1870 "quarto" (actually a folio), original cloth, hinges repaired ($1750). eBay online auction, Oct.-Nov., 1808 quarto, half morocco (no bids on a required starting bid of $1000). Heritage Book Shop, Nov., private offer, 1870 portfolio of loose pls. complete, original cloth portfolio, spine missing and covers loose ($300).

Fenning and Collyer, New System of Geography. eBay online auction, June-July, pl. 2 only, 1st st. from the 1785-86 ed., stained in the margin lower left, illus. color (£360). See illus. 6.

Flaxman, Hesiod designs, 1817. eBay online auction, Feb., spotting and soiling, some paper missing in margins, later cloth worn, leaves loose, illus. ($212.50). eBay online auction, June, pl. 25 only, illus. ($25). eBay online auction, June, bound with Flaxman's Aeschylus designs, 1831, half morocco, illus. ($1000—probably an auction record for these 2 works). Sims Reed, Nov. online cat., slight folds down the centers of the pls., rebound in cloth-backed boards, original cover label retained ($711).

6. Blake's pl. 2, 1st st., from Daniel Fenning and Joseph Collyer, A New System of Geography, ed. Frederick Hervey (2 vols., 1785-86). 20.5 x 17.5 cm., etched and engraved by Blake after John Webber. Essick collection. This impression sold on eBay, June-July 2002. This is the only time I have seen either of the 2 Blake pls. from Fenning and Collyer on the market; I have never seen a copy of the book for sale. Bentley records 1 copy (British Museum) of the 1785-86 ed. with the 1st st. of pl. 2. In the 2nd st., appearing in the 1787 ed. (3 copies recorded), the single alteration is in the date in the imprint, from 1785 to 1787. Only this plate is signed by Blake; the frontispiece to vol. 1 is attributed to him on the questionable basis of a pencil inscription on a proof in the Balmanno Collection, British Museum.

Scholars interested in Blake's renderings of, and attitudes towards, non-Europeans may find even this minor copy engraving of interest. Webber's portraits of Pacific Islanders were widely known through their publication in James Cook [and James King], A Voyage to the Pacific Ocean (1784). Such images played a role in the British creation of what we now might call "the physiognomy of the Other." There are as well clear resemblances among the "Man of Van Diemen's Land" (lower left) and three of Blake's Visionary Heads: Faulconberg the Bastard, Owen Glendower, and Hotspur (Butlin #730, 743-45). Perhaps the illegitimate son of a king, a Welshman, and a hothead from Northumberland were as foreign to Blake as a Tasmanian.

Hunter, Historical Journal, 1793. eBay online auction, April, pl. only, apparently from the quarto issue, illus. (reserve not met; highest bid £128.50).

Josephus, Works, c. 1785-86 and later. Krown & Spellman, Jan. online cat., Bentley's "B" issue or later, several tears and stains, cloth (£850). Escargot Books, Jan. online cat., Bentley's "B" issue or later, calf worn (£650). eBay online auctions, Jan., pl. 1 only, illus. (£135); pl. 1 only, marginal staining, illus. (£125). eBay online auction, Nov., Bentley's "E" issue, some tears in leaves, early calf worn, illus. (reserve price not met; highest bid £156). eBay online auction, Dec., Bentley's "C" issue, contemporary calf rebacked, illus. color (£299).

Novelist’s Magazine, vol. 8, 1782. Adam and Eve Books, Jan. online cat., quarter calf worn (£50).

Rees, Cyclopaedia, 1820. George Jeffery, Jan. online cat., vol. 1 of pls. only (containing Blake's pl. 1), some spotting, calf worn, front cover detached (£180). Barter Books, Jan. online cat., 4 vols. of pls. only, 152 pls. missing but perhaps some of Blake's still present, light foxing, no description of binding other than "spines missing" (£780). Naughton Booksellers, Jan. online cat., vol. 3 of the pls. only (containing Blake's pl. 3), some staining, half calf worn, spine missing (£275). eBay online auctions, Oct., pls. 1, 4-7 only, sold individually, illus. (£49.95 each).

Salzmann, Elements of Morality, 1791. eBay online auction, Feb., complete pls. only, all 1st st., a few trimmed, mounted in a morocco album, 1 pl. illus. (£676).

Seally and Lyons, Complete Geographical Dictionary, c. 1784. eBay online auctions, June, pl. 1 only, 1st st. ($128.50); pl. 3 only, 1st st. ($198.50). eBay online auctions, Oct., pls. 1 and 2 only, sold individually, both 3rd st. illus. ($49.95 each).

Stedman, Narrative, 1796, colored copies. SL, 8 May, #292, 2 vols., minor browning, contemporary half calf, joints repaired, pl. 12 illus. color (£5258). SNY, 20 May, #347, 2 vols., minor browning, contemporary Russia (£5975); same copy, Heritage Book Shop, Nov. private offer (£12,500). CSK, 22 Nov., #382, 35 pls. only, apparently disbound, including some by Blake, hand colored (not sold; estimate £600-800).

Stuart and Revett, Antiquities of Athens. Sims Reed, Jan. online cat., 5 vols. in 3, 1762-1830, contemporary Russia (vols. 1-2) and modern calf (vol. 3) (£18,000). CL, 13 June, #119, 4 vols., 1762-1818, some browning, early 19th-century morocco, from Beriah Bottfield’s Library at Longleat House (£21,510 on an estimate of £7000-10,000). CL, 19 Nov., #49, 5 vols., 1762-1830, some spotting, contemporary Russia, from the collection of Lord Wraxall (£11,352).

Varley, Treatise on Zodiacal Physiognomy, 1828. SL, 12 Dec., #246, modern half morocco, original wrappers bound in (£2032 on an estimate of £500-700 to Arthur Freeman, possibly bidding for an institution). The first complete copy to appear on the market in many years.

Virgil, Pastorals, 1821. eBay online auction, March, pl. 25 (‘The Giant Polyphemus’, delineated by Blake after Poussin) only, illus. (£39). Justin Schiller, March cat. 50, #73, 2 vols., labels on inside front covers of both vols. recording the presentation of the book on 6 May 1822 (recipient’s name erased, but probably a student at St. Paul’s School), contemporary calf, apparently a presentation binding for St. Paul’s School, 4 wood engravings and binding illus. color (£65,000—a record asking price for the work). The Schiller copy was previously sold CNY, 10 Dec. 1999, #110 (£18,400 to the London dealer Simon Finch); offered by Finch, Feb. 2000 Los Angeles Book Fair (£21,000; acquired by Schiller). For further comments on the binding, see Blake 34 (2001): 107-08. Fine Art Society, handlist for the June-July “Pastoral” exhibit, #1, Blake’s 17 original wood engravings, Linnell impressions on thin paper, from the collection of Frank Rinder, previously sold CL, 30 Nov. 1993, #6, for £4600 (£20,000). John Windle, Oct. cat. for the Boston Book Fair, #11, 2 vols., modern calf (£22,500).

The Wit’s Magazine, 1784. eBay online auction, May, pl. 2 (2nd version of “The Temple of Mirth”) only, light stains, illus. color (£160.27).

Young, Night Thoughts, 1797, uncolored copies. William Reese, Jan. online cat., lacking the “Explanation” leaf, 1st st. of the fly-title to Night the Second, early 20th-century three-quarter calf (£6500); same copy and price, Feb. Los Angeles Book Fair. John Windle, Jan. online cat., with the “Explanation” leaf, 2 pls. before imprints, all but top edge uncut, later full morocco, hinges repaired (£8750); same copy and price, Feb. Los Angeles Book Fair (sold to a French book dealer). Heritage Book Shop, Jan. online cat., with the “Explanation” leaf, all but the top edge uncut, half mo-with the "Explanation" leaf, foxing and browning, contemporary morocco ($10,300). Phillip Pirages, Jan. online cat., with the "Explanation" leaf, contemporary morocco ($19,500). eBay online auction, Oct.-Nov., with the "Explanation" leaf, slight staining, "morocco and cloth boards," top edge gilt (reserve price not met; top bid $1025).

Zodiacus Medico-Gallicus, platement "leaf, slight staining, "morocco and cloth boards,"

Interesting Blakeana

Zodiacus Medico-Gallicus, vols. 1-3, Geneva, 1680-82. eBay online auction, Feb., bearing the initials "WB" in ink in an unstated location, old calf rebated, several illus. including the initials ($995). I very much doubt that the initials are those of William Blake, poet and artist.

T. Butts, Jr. "Man on a Drinking Horse," etching/engraving signed "T Butts: sc" and dated "22 Jany 1806," platemark 5.1 x 8.7 cm., said in the eBay listing (see below) to have been printed in an ed. of 250 in the 1920s by the Miniature Print Society of Kansas City, Missouri, from the original copperplate donated by "Colonel W. R. Moss" (possibly an error for the British Blake collector Lt.-Col. W. E. Moss) to the Nelson-Atkins Museum of Kansas City. eBay online auction, Sept., illus. ($4.99; acquired by Alexander Gourlay). Jerry W. Horn Gallery, Pittsburgh, Sept. online cat., on sheet of laid paper 11.8 x 15.4 cm., printed with considerable plate-tone, "The Miniature Print Society" inscribed in pencil on verso, illus. ($50; acquired by R. Essick). Not in the handlist of prints by Butts, father and son, in Essick 211-12; no impression specifically named in the Moss auction cat., SI, 2-9 March 1937. Blake gave engraving lessons to Thomas Butts, Jr. (1788-1862), beginning no later than 1806 and continuing until at least 1808.

W. Hayley, Memoirs of the Life and Writings, 1823. Adam Mills, Jan. online cat., 2 vols., later half calf (£300). Contains important contemporary references to Blake.

R. Watt, Bibliotheca Britannica, 1824. BBA, 17 Oct., #253, 4 vols., later morocco-backed cloth (£55). One of the few bibliographies published in Blake's lifetime to include a brief, highly selective list of his works.

J. and A. Taylor, City Scenes, 1828. Hollett and Son, July cat., #272, original cloth rebacked (£450). Contains Blake's "Holy Thursday" from Songs of Innocence, illustrated with an engraving which, although showing the children being led out of the church by beadles, is not directly related to Blake's design.

Catalogue of the Printed Books and Manuscripts Bequeathed by Francis Douce, Esq. to the Bodleian Library, 1840. Scott Brinded, Jan. cat. 24, #171, recent cloth (£260). The bequest included copies of The Book of Thel, A Descriptive Catalogue, and Designs to a Series of Ballads, Written by William Hayley (front matter and Ballad 1 only). One of the earlier collection cats. to include Blake material.

J. T. Smith, A Book for a Rainy Day, 3rd ed., 1861. Steven Ferdinando, Jan. online cat., publisher's cloth worn (£45). A surprisingly rare book, even in its 3rd ed., with a recollection of "often heard him [Blake] read and sing several of his poems" (83). In a footnote on the same page, Smith claims that Blake took "very few impressions from the plates [of his "works"]—presumably meaning his illuminated books] before they were rubbed out to enable him to use them for other subjects." This seems unlikely, given the nature of relief etching, but might account for the absence of late printings of a few illuminated books (e.g., no copies of The Song of Los, The Book of Los, and The Book of Ahania—the latter two etched in intaglio and thus more easily "rubbed out"—after the first and only printings of 1795).
7. Blake, Songs of Innocence and of Experience, William Pickering ed., 1839. Essick collection. Pp. 22-23, the third through the sixth stanzas of “Night.” The upper pencil annotation on p. 22 (“sit down by”) is in the handwriting of William Michael Rossetti; it correctly restores the reading to Blake’s etched text. This and other annotations by W. M. Rossetti were very probably made in preparation for his 1874 Poetical Works of William Blake. That edition, and its many reprints, follow this emendation. Several of W. M. Rossetti’s other annotations throughout this volume also accord with his 1874 edition, even in those cases where his emended readings are not authorial. For example, in "A Cradle Song," both Rossetti’s annotation in this volume and his edition change “While o’er thee thy mother weep” (Pickering ed. and Blake’s etched text) to “While o’er thee doth mother weep.”

The pencil annotations lower on p. 22 and the two nearest to the top of p. 23 are in a second hand. Jerome J. McGann has confidently identified this hand as Dante Gabriel Rossetti’s (private communication, 23 July 2002). None of these annotations is followed in the 1874 edition. But the final pencil annotation on p. 23, changing “name” to “mane,” follows Blake’s etched text and accords with the 1874 edition. This may look like a third hand, but McGann has also identified it, with less confidence, as D. G. Rossetti’s.

T. Taylor, Handbook of the Pictures in the International Exhibition of 1862. Charles Wood Bookseller, Feb. cat. 111, #90, original printed wrappers worn, back wrapper missing ($175). Pre-Gilchrist (by 1 year) comments on the art of Blake and his circle, pp. 72-77. "Blake's works present a marked contrast to Fuseli's, though they are just as much beyond the pale of good art" (74).

I. Smetham (1821-89), "Piping Down the Valleys [sic] Wild." A water color, 6.1 x 17.2 cm., illustrating (or at least inspired by) the opening line of Blake's "Introduction" to Songs of Innocence. Signed and inscribed with the title. Agnew's, Feb.-March "Watercolours & Drawings" cat., #94, illus. color (£2250).

Blake, Jerusalem, Pearson facsimile, 1877. eBay online auction, Nov., some soiling in margins, ex-library copy, later cloth, illus. color (spirited bidding to $511).

W. Muir facsimiles of Blake's illuminated books. Swann, 18 April, #20, America, 1887, hand-colored copy, modern half calf, Muir's copy number not recorded, probably because the original wrappers were not preserved ($3680). SNY, 21 May, #390, Songs of Experience, 1885, Muir's copy number 47, quarter morocco, original wrappers bound in, "The Fly" illus. color ($1434); same copy, James Cummins, Nov. cat. 82, #7, general title page illus. ($2500). eBay online auction, July, Visions of the Daughters of Albion, 1884, 1 of only 7 copies on "Antique Note" paper (according to a note by Muir with this copy), some marginal foxing, original wrappers rather cockled with "Academy" (probably meaning a review copy sent to the journal of that name) written where the copy number should appear, later paper slipcase (reserve not met; top bid $965). Blackwell's, Sept. "Summer Miscellany," #70, The Marriage of Heaven and Hell, 1885, "12 etchings by Schiavonetti [sic] from designs by Blake tipped to blank leaves at end" (apparently the illus. to Blair's Grave, Schiavonetti after Blake), foxed, quarter morocco, original wrappers apparently not retained (£320).

Blake, Songs of Experience (late 19th or early 20th century?). 27 pls. in hand-colored facsimile of the Experience section of Songs of Innocence and of Experience copy T in the British Museum, plus "A Divine Image" and a list of the poems included. Apparently bound in blue paper wrappers, similar to those used in the Muir facsimiles. eBay online auction, Oct., all pls. illus. color (highest bid $2100 but withdrawn after about 24 hours). This work does not correspond to any published facsimile known to me. I could not tell from the illus. if there was any printed base, but I suspect not. If completely hand drawn and colored, this might be the one-off production of a talented amateur, possibly someone in the Muir circle of facsimilists. The book was offered again on eBay in Nov., with an equally rambling and annoyingly uninformative description and the same illus. (reserve price not met; highest bid $2950).

Frederick Keppel & Co., New York, Catalogue of an Exhibition of Drawings & Sketches by Turner Gainsborough Blake and other Contemporary English Masters, 1892. R. W. Smith, Jan. online cat. ($25). This small exhibition handlist includes 50 drawings and water colors attributed to Blake, plus 8 of Schiavonetti's engravings of Blake's illustrations for Blair's The Grave (1808) and 2 pls. engraved by Blake for Hayley's Life of Cowper (1803-04). All 40 drawings from the collection of Dr. Charles E. West are so-called "Camden Hotten forgeries" originally executed as part of a facsimile project by Henry Bellars. Not in Bentley or Butlin (because none of the drawings is genuine?).

"Crimson Joy" (see Blake's "The Sick Rose," line 6). Lipstick (3.2 grams, chemical analysis pending) issued spring 2002 by L'Oreal of Paris. Housed in a gold-colored plastic cylinder, 7.5 cm. long, 1.8 cm. diameter. The closest color match for this dark red lipstick with the Pantone Matching System is no. 209C (14 parts ruby red, 2 parts yellow, 4 parts black). Long's Drugs, Santa Barbara, California, May private offer ($9.69; acquired by J. La Belle for S2 less with a manufacturer's coupon). Reportedly available worldwide at better drugstores.

Blake's Circle and Followers

Works are listed under artists' names in the following order: paintings and drawings sold in groups, single paintings and drawings, letters and manuscripts, separate plates, books by (or with plates by or after) the artist.
BARRY, JAMES

Study for "The Glorious Sextumvirate." Pen and ink on blue paper, 57.5 x 43.2 cm. Agnew's, Feb.-March "Watercolours & Drawings" cat., #6, illus. color (£15,000).

CALVERT, EDWARD

The Carfax portfolio of Calvert's engravings and lithographs, 1904. Fine Art Society, handlist for the June-July "Pastoral" exhibit, #4, original wrappers (£25,000).

"The Bride," engraving. Fine Art Society, handlist for the June-July "Pastoral" exhibit, #5 (but #6 on the price list), from the Memoir, 1893 (£3250).

"The Chamber Idyll," wood engraving. Fine Art Society, handlist for the June-July "Pastoral" exhibit, #6 (but #5 on the price list), from the Carfax portfolio ("sold").

FLAXMAN, JOHN

Two Women with a Young Child. Pen and ink with gray washes over pencil, 15.5 x 18 cm. SL, 4 July, 184, illus. color (£2151).

Portrait of Flaxman, engraved by Woodman after Jackson. eBay online auction, Jan., illus. (£15.49).

Aeschylus designs, 1795. Joslin Hall, Jan. online cat., lacking 7 pls., foxed, boards worn ($125). Unsworths Booksellers, March cat. 6, #2, the 31 pls. bound in a copy of Aeschylus, Tragedies, Foulis Press, 1795, foxed, later half calf, 1 pl. illus. (£2300).

Flaxman, Anatomical Studies, 1833. Lucienne Elshout, Jan. online cat., original cloth worn, repaired with tape ($250).

Iliad designs. Hellmut Schumann, Jan. online cat., bound with the Odyssey designs, both Paris, 1803, 14 pls. not by Flaxman added, marginal water staining, later half cloth worn ($452). Librairie Ancienne Minet Frères, Jan. online cat., bound with the Odyssey, Aeschylus, and Hesiod designs, no place or date, but claimed to be pub. Florence c. 1826 (?), half morocco worn ($836). Robert Clark, April cat. 62, #137, 1795 ed., bound with the Aeschylus designs, 1795, "minor soiling," contemporary half calf worn (£325). eBay online auction, June, with the Dante designs and "sujets divers," 1833 and 1847, engraved Reveil, calf worn, illus. (£200).

Milton, Latin and Italian Poems, 1808. G. W. Stuart, Feb. cat. 101, #89, bound with Hayley, Life of Milton, 1796, contemporary half calf very worn ($450); #96, Latin and Italian Poems only, foxed, contemporary Russia very worn ($350); #181, another copy, uncut in original boards rebacked, worn, covers loose ($450).

FUSELI, HENRY

Callipyga: Mrs. Fuseli with Her Skirts Lifted to Her Waist Standing before a Dressing Table with Phallic Supports. Pen and brown ink, 15.9 x 9.5 cm. CI, 21 Nov., #15, illus. color (not sold; estimate £12,000-18,000). Previously sold SL, 13 Nov. 1997, #59, illus. color (£17,250). For illus. and comments, see Blake 31 (1998): 131, illus. 15 and the racy caption thereto.

Flora Surrounded by the Four Elements, a drawing for the frontispiece to Darwin's Botanic Garden, 1791, engraved by A. Smith. Pencil, 23.8 x 18.2 cm. oval. Lowell Libson, May cat. of “British Master Drawings,” #14, illus. color ($42,000).

Romeo and Juliet (the balcony scene). Oil, 141 x 111 cm. SL, 21 March, #48, illus. color (£35,000).

Bell’s British Theatre, 1791-97. Hartfield Books, April cat. 60, #21, 28 vols., large-paper issue said to contain “proof” impressions of the pls., contemporary calf worn ($1500).

Bonnycastle, Sorrows Sacred to the Memory of Penelope, 1796. Stuart Bennett, April cat. 38, #17, minor spotting, contemporary half sheep worn, pl. after Fuseli illus. ($350).

Fuseli, Lectures on Painting, 1820. Jeffrey Thomas, April New York Book Fair, contemporary calf rebacked, apparently William Beckford’s copy with his “characteristic neatly pencilled notes referring to passages on six pages of the text” on a preliminary flyleaf ($2500).

Lavater, Essai sur la Physiognomie, 1782-83. eBay online auction, June-July, 8 pls. after Fuseli sold individually, illus. (price range $19.99 to $127.50).

Young, Catalogue of the ... Collection of ... Angerstein, 1823. eBay online auction, July-Aug., outline engraving of Fuseli’s The Deluge only, illus. ($8.95). R. G. Watkins, Oct. cat. 49, #91, large-paper issue, lacking 1 pl. after Rembrandt, half calf rebacked (£100).

LINNELL, JOHN

An Apple Tree. Water color, 14.6 x 10.2 cm., signed with initials and dated 1811. CL, 6 June, #54, illus. color (£21,510 on an estimate of £8000-12,000).

The Dusty Road. Oil, 71 x 99 cm., signed and dated 1869/72. SL, 19 Dec. 2001, #14, illus. color (not sold; estimate £6000-8000).

Spring 2003
A Farmhouse at Shoreham. Pen and brown wash, 20.3 x 32.3 cm., datable to c. 1830. Lowell Libson, May cat. of "British Master Drawings," #22, illus. color ("sold"). One of those rare drawings by Linnell that shows Palmer's influence during the Shoreham period.

Finchley Common. Black and white chalk on blue paper, 23.2 x 33 cm., inscribed "Finchley common 1805. J. Linnell." CL, 21 Nov., #211, illus. color (£4080 on an estimate of £600-800).

Kensington Gravel Pits. Oil, 14 x 22.9 cm., dated to c. 1811-12. CL, 26 Nov., #71, illus. color (£10,157 on an estimate of only £2000-3000).

Lakeland Scenes, 3 signed pencil and chalk drawings, 1 with water colors, sizes not given, datable to c. 1817. G. A. Key auction, Aylsham, Norfolk, 14 Dec. 2001, #290 (£246).

A Moonlit Landscape, attributed (rather hopefully) to Linnell. Brown ink and brown wash, 23 x 31 cm. SL, 28 Nov., #224, illus. color (not sold; estimate £800-1200).

Portrait of Jane Puxley. Oil, 90 x 70 cm., signed and dated 1826. SL, 21 March, #40, illus. color (£12,575).

Portrait of Miss Puxley. Oil, 90 x 70 cm., signed and dated 1826. SL, 21 March, #41, illus. color (£10,800).

Portrait of Mrs. Henry Stephen. Oil, 26.5 x 21.3 cm., signed and dated 1830. CL, 26 Nov., #49, illus. color (£4182).

Reverend Edward Bury. Pencil heightened with white on buff paper, 24.7 x 15.2 cm., signed "J Linnell." CL, 21 Nov., #33, illus. color (£1314).

Studies of a Donkey. Pencil, 11 x 17.5 cm., signed and dated 1824. Bonham's auction, 24 Sept., #66, illus. (£500).

Study of the Sun Setting over the Sea. Water color, 6.7 x 11 cm. SL, 21 March, #209, illus. color (£4320 on an estimate of £1500-2000).

A Wooded Landscape with Herdsmen and Cattle. Oil, 20.5 x 13.9 cm., dated to 1828. CL, 26 Nov., #72, illus. color (£4541).

"The Nest," engraving by Cousen after Linnell, 1873. eBay online auction, May, illus. ($13.50).

"Sheep at Noon," etching. Weston Gallery, Sept. online cat. 3, with the imprint, laid India, illus. (£1300).

"Woodcutters in Windsor Park," etching, 1818. AN, 25 Dec., #281, laid India, framed ($1440 on an estimate of $500-700).

MORTIMER, JOHN HAMILTON

"Banditti Regaling," etching, Ireland after Mortimer, 1785. eBay online auction, April, printed in brown, illus. color (no bids on a required starting bid of $99.95).

"Banditti Returning," etching. Blyth after Mortimer, 1780. eBay online auction, April, printed in brown, illus. color ($99.95).

"Man Struggling with Monster," etching, Blyth after Mortimer, 1805. eBay online auction, May, illus. color ($99.95).

"Reposo," etching. BBA, 18 July, #110, with "A Captain of Banditti and His Family," Ireland after Mortimer, "Silenus" and "Enjoying Domestic Happiness," 2 pls. by Blyth after Mortimer, and an etched portrait of a satyr by Mortimer, all with some damage (not sold; estimate £80-120).

Shakespeare Character Heads. Michael Finney Books & Prints, May online cat., 8 heads, cut close and remargined, probably Palser printings, 2 illus. (1 at £200, 7 at £220 each).

PALMER, SAMUEL

A Bridge over a Stream, attributed to Palmer. Watercolor, 15.5 x 16.6 cm. SL, 28 Nov., #336, illus. color (£1434).

A Cliff Top View in Cornwall. Black chalk, 10.4 x 17.4 cm., datable to 1858. CL, 6 June, #60, illus. color (not sold on an estimate of £5000-7000).

In Cusop Brook near Hay-on-Wye, Wales. Watercolor, 18.5 x 27.5 cm., dated 1837. SL, 4 July, #200, illus. color (£4541).

"Mark you Old Mansion..." Pen and brown ink, 9.5 x 15.5 cm., signed in reverse. Agnew's, Feb.-March "Watercolours & Drawings" cat., #54, illus. color (£17,500). A preliminary drawing for an illustration in Samuel Rogers, The Pleasures of Memory, c. 1865.

Panoramic View of Florence from below the Church of San Miniato. Watercolor, 44 x 61 cm., datable to c. 1837-39. SL, 21 March, #195, illus. color (£12,000).

The Porta di Posillipo and the Bay of Baiae, Italy—with Ischia and the Promontory of Misenum. Watercolor and body color, 19 x 41 cm., datable to 1845. SL, 28 Nov., #269, illus. color (not sold; estimate £10,000-15,000).

Sunrise over the Sea, Cornwall. Watercolor, 13 x 18 cm., datable to 1848. SL, 21 March, #208, illus. color (£6600).

La Vocatella near Corpo di Cava in the Neighbourhood of Salerno and Naples. Watercolor, 27.3 x 37.8 cm., datable to 1838. Agnew's, Feb.-March "Watercolours & Drawings" cat., #53, illus. color (£30,000).

A Windmill near Pulborough, West Sussex. Watercolor, 12 x 16.3 cm., datable to c. 1851. CL, 21 Nov., #31, illus. color (£6572).

"Herdsman's Cottage," etching. eBay online auction, Dec., 2nd st., full margins, illus. (£358).

"Naked Female Figures with Attendants in an Ideal Landscape," wood engraving. For a tentative attribution of this work to Palmer, see the first entry under Calvert, above.

"Rising Moon," etching. Fine Art Society, handlist for the June-July "Pastoral" exhibit, #9, 4th st., inscribed "Proof in progress" and "before plate was cut," pencil signature (£9500).

"Sleeping Shepherd," etching. Fine Art Society, handlist for the June-July "Pastoral" exhibit, #10, 4th st., trial proof with drawing, inscribed "Early Trial Proof. Touched for working" (£15,000).

Dickens, Pictures from Italy, 1846. Brick Row Book Shop, Feb. Los Angeles Book Fair, later quarter calf (£375). Hollett and Son, July cat., #367, original cloth (£750).

RICHMOND, GEORGE

The Blessed Valley. Watercolor, 32.4 x 21 cm., inscribed "GR. Paris 1829." CL, 21 Nov., #32, illus. color (not sold; estimate £7000-10,000). Formerly in the collection of Raymond Lister; for a color illus., see Lister, George Richmond: A Critical Biography (London: Robin Garton, 1981) pl. x.

Figure Studies. Brown ink, 28 x 17.8 cm. Abbott and Holder, June cat. 347, #98 (£225).
A Heavily Bearded Man. Black chalk, 20.3 x 12.7 cm. Abbott and Holder, March cat. 345, #95 (£250).

Mother and Child. Pencil, 22.9 x 17.8 cm. Abbott and Holder, June cat. 347, #100 (£125).

Mr. Haydn, a Recollection from Nature. Pencil, pen and ink, heightened with white, 22.9 x 15.3 cm., signed and dated to 1831. Abbott and Holder, June cat. 347, #99 (£850).

Self Portrait. Oil, 60 x 49.5 cm. SL, 28 Nov., #191, illus. color (£26,290 on an estimate of £8000-12,000).

Study of Julia Tatham, Aged 13. Black, white, and red chalk, 15.5 x 11.5 cm., another sketch of the sitter on the verso. SL, 21 March, #109, illus. color (£3360).

Study of a Shepherd; Study of a Child. 2 pen and brown ink sketches on 2 sheets, 1 with verso study of a sleeping woman, 15 x 10 cm. and 17 x 11 cm., 1 signed. SL, 21 March, #219, Study of a Child illus. color (£1800).

“The Shepherd,” engraving. Fine Art Society, handlist for the June-July “Pastoral” exhibit, #2, black ink on laid India, from the collection of Mrs. John Richmond (£15,000).

ROMNEY, GEORGE

Romney Drawings, exhibition and cat., Agnew’s, June. In part a loan exhibition, but the following lots (all illus. color) were for sale: #2, Study of a Naval Officer, 41.6 x 28 cm. (£25,000); #3, Two Young Children Seated, 28.6 x 46.4 cm. (£35,000); #4, Study of a Woman Sitting on the Ground, 30.5 x 29.2 cm. (£25,000); #7, Study of Ann Parry, 23.5 x 17.6 cm. (£15,000); #8, A Mother and Child, 27.8 x 20.7 cm. (£25,000); #10, Study of Captives in a Prison, 34.8 x 49.5 cm. (£35,000); #11, John Howard Visiting a Prison or Lazaretto, 14 x 22.8 cm. (£5000); #12, Macbeth Confronts Banquo’s Ghost, 32.7 x 49.5 cm. (£20,000); #14, Viola Surviving Shipwreck, from Twelfth Night, 29.9 x 48.9 cm. (£25,000); #15, Satan, Sin and Death, 15.6 x 19.3 cm. (£5000); #17, Figures Gathered round the Bed of a Dying Woman, 17.5 x 25.1 cm. (£15,000); #18, Figures Gathered round a Woman on Her Deathbed, 17.8 x 24.5 cm. (£15,000); #19, Figures Grieving round the Bed of a Dead Woman, 10.8 x 18.1 cm. (£12,000); #22, The Destruction of Niobe’s Children, 48.5 x 69.2 cm. (£20,000); #24, Two Mythological Figure Studies, 20.7 x 32.4 cm. (£12,500).

8. George Romney, Iphigenia Waking. Pencil, pen, black and gray wash, 38.9 x 51 cm. Datable to the early 1780s. Apparently based on an incident in the story of Cimon and Iphigenia in Boccaccio’s Decameron, 5th day, novel 1. When Iphigenia awakes from her woodland slumber, she is surprised to find Cimon watching her and she begins to fear that he will violate her honor. Romney’s large and vigorous drawings picturing young women under duress may have influenced Blake’s writings on similar themes, including the “Little Girl Lost” and “Found” poems (Songs of Innocence, 1789), The Book of Thel (1789), and Visions of the Daughters of Albion (1793). For discussion and illustrations, see Jean Hagstrum, “Romney and Blake: Gifts of Grace and Terror,” Blake in His Time, ed. Robert N. Essick and Donald Pearce (Bloomington and London: Indiana UP, 1978) 201-12. Photo courtesy of Christie’s London.

Eve Expelled from the Garden. Black chalk heightened with white, 22.9 x 17.8 cm. Abbott and Holder, Jan. online cat. 344, #75 (£250).

Iphigenia Waking. Pencil, pen, black and gray wash, 38.9 x 51 cm. CL, 6 June, #16, illus. color (not sold on an estimate of £15,000-20,000). See illus. 8.

Milton and His Daughters. Oil study, unfinished, 62.8 x 76.2 cm., datable to c. 1791-92. Lowell Libson, May cat. of “British Master Drawings,” #8 ($120,000). For a color illus., see The Burlington Magazine 144 (March 2002): xvii.

Serena, based on the character in Hayley’s The Triumphs of Temper, with other figures on the verso. Pencil, 33.6 x 26 cm. CL, 21 Nov., #3, illus. color (£4541).
STOTHARD, THOMAS

Figure Studies, including Falstaff Fighting. Pen and ink on sheet 15.2 x 14.6 cm., inscribed “By Stothard R. A.” in another hand. eBay online auction, March, framed, illus. (reserve not met; highest bid $102.50).

Ulysses and the Syrens. Oil, 39 x 50 cm. SL, 4 July, #48, illus. color (not sold; estimate £2000-3000); SL, 2 Dec., #17, illus. color (£1175).

Young Lovers Emerging to the Surprise of Friends. Oil, 30.5 x 38.1 cm. Abbott and Holder, March cat. 345, #9 (£2500).

“John Gilpin,” Worthington after Stothard, 1825. eBay online auction, March, illus. color (no bids on a required minimum bid of $99.95); same impression, eBay, Oct.-Nov., illus. color (£69.95).

“Mary Queen of Scots Receiving the Death Sentence,” Edwards after Stothard, c. 1800. eBay online auction, March, hand colored, illus. color (not sold on a required starting bid of $99.95).

“Pilgrim & Herdsman,” Strutt after Stothard, 1796. eBay online auction, March, repaired tear in margin, stained, illus. ($36).

“The Sailor’s Return,” Ward after Stothard. eBay online auction, June, with a companion pl. after Singleton, both pls. color printed, framed, illus. ($32).

“Runaway Love,” Knight after Stothard. eBay online auction, June, with a companion pl. after Singleton, both pls. color printed, framed, illus. ($32).

Book of Common Prayer, 1794. eBay online auction, Oct., contemporary morocco, illus. color (reserve not met; top bid $103.50).

Bray, Life of Stothard, 1851, extra-illus. copies only. Korn & Towns, Feb. Los Angeles Book Fair, with 105 added pls. (none by Blake), quarter morocco ($500).

Bunyan, Pilgrim’s Progress, series of engravings by Strutt after Stothard, 1793. eBay online auction, May, pl. 1 (frontispiece) only, printed in dark brown, water stained, illus. color (no bids on a required minimum bid of $29.95).

Burns, The Works of Robert Burns; with His Life, by Allan Cunningham, 8 vols., London: Cochran and M’Crone, 1834. eBay online auction, Feb., vol. 1 (Cunningham’s Life) only with title page vignette of Burns’ birthplace, Booth after Stothard, not previously recorded, disbound, stained, illus. (£4.99).

Catullus, Tibullus et Propertius, Pickering ed., 1824. G. W. Stuart, March cat. 102, #24, original cloth worn ($195); #25, another copy, original cloth worn ($185). Howes Bookshop, Nov. cat. 298, #172, original cloth repaired (£55).

Rogers, Poems. Bertram Rota, Sept. cat. 300, #603, 1812 ed., contemporary half calf (£180); #604, another copy, contemporary calf (£180); #605, another copy, “New Edition” on the title page, contemporary calf worn (£60); #606, 1816 ed., fine contemporary morocco, binding illus. color (£150); #607, 1820 ed., contemporary morocco (£60); #608, 1822 ed., presentation inscription from Rogers, contemporary morocco (£200). eBay online auction, Oct., 1852 ed., publisher’s calf, illus. color (£46). Howes Bookshop, Nov. cat. 299, #157, 1834 ed., fancy full morocco (£150).

Scott, Rokeby, 1813. Waterfield’s, Sept. cat. 195, #132, contemporary half calf very worn (£30).

Walton, Complete Angler, Pickering ed., 1836. BBA, 2 May, #304, large-paper copy with illus. on laid India, some spotting, fine contemporary morocco binding illus. color (£1000).

VON HOLST, THEODOR

Judith and Holofernes. Gray washes over pencil, 22 x 17.5 cm. SL, 4 July, #123, illus. color (not sold; estimate £2000-3000).
Appendix: New Information on Blake’s Engravings

Listed below are substantive additions or corrections to Roger R. Easson and Robert N. Essick, William Blake: Book Illustrator, vol. 1, Plates Designed and Engraved by Blake (1972); Essick, The Separate Plates of William Blake: A Catalogue (1983); and Essick, William Blake’s Commercial Book Illustrations (1991). Abbreviations and citation styles follow the respective volumes, with the addition of “Butlin” according to the List of Abbreviations at the beginning of this sales review. Newly discovered impressions of previously recorded published states of Blake’s engravings are listed only for the rarer separate plates.

The Separate Plates of William Blake: A Catalogue

P. 69, “Chaucers Canterbury Pilgrims,” impression 4AA. For the attempted sale of this impression, 1 of only 3 recorded in the 4th st., see the first entry under “Separate Plates and Plates in Series” in the sales review, above.

P. 150, “Rev. John Caspar Lavater,” impression 1A, a unique proof state. Given July 2002 by Leo Steinberg to the Jack S. Blanton Museum of Art, University of Texas, Austin, Texas.

Pp. 191-200, “M’Q,” after Villiers. For a previously unrecorded impression, see under “Separate Plates and Plates in Series” in the sales review, above.

M I N U T E  P A R T I C U L A R S

The Sound of “Holy Thursday”

BY W. H. STEVENSON

William Blake and Joseph Haydn make an odd pair. Quite possibly they passed one another in the street. Great Pulteney Street, where Haydn came to stay with Salomon on 7th January 1791, is only five minutes’ walk from Blake’s house in Poland Street—but the Blakes had almost certainly left for Lambeth not long before. artistically, their paths are worlds apart. Blake, idiosyncratic and rebellious, inventing his own forms, openly hostile to all things classical; Haydn, content to use the classical forms of his age as the groundwork of his genius. The two men come together, however, over one event, the annual service of the London charity-school children in St. Paul’s, recorded in Blake’s two “Holy Thursday” poems:

Twas on a Holy Thursday their innocent faces clean
The children walking two & two in red & blue & green
Grey headed beadles walkd before with wands as white as snow
Till into the high dome of Pauls they like Thames waters flow
Now like a mighty wind they raise to heaven the voice of song
Or like harmoniou s thunderings the seats of heaven
among . . . . (Songs of Innocence)

At different times, both witnessed this service. Haydn, in his notebook for 1792, wrote that “no music ever moved me so deeply in my whole life as this, devotional and innocent” (no small thing for Haydn to say), “All the children are newly clad, and enter in procession. The organist first played the melody very nicely and simply, and then they all began to sing at once.”

What is more, he wrote down the tune that so moved him. It was composed by John Jones (1728-96), organist at St. Paul’s for many years, and published as no. 24 in his Sixty Chants (1785) (illus. 1).

1. H.C. Robbins Landon, The Collected Correspondence and London Notebooks of Joseph Haydn (London: Barry and Rockliff, 1959) 261, where the tune is reproduced as Haydn heard it. Landon carefully heads the page “1791-1792”. New Grove (see next note) dates the event 1791. But though the entries are not in date order, all those around this entry that are dated are from 1792.

Longman and Broderip, 1785) 78-79. The copy in the National Library of Scotland (cat. no. Cwn 432) retains “1785” as the title page date, but self-evidently must have been printed no earlier than April

Spring 2003

Blake/An Illustrated Quarterly 137